DANZIG ELECTIONS

DECISIVE VICTORY FOR HITLERITES

AN INDEPENDENT MAJORITY

Danzig, May 29.
The Danzig elections, although carried through in an atmosphere of considerable excitement passed off without serious disturbances.

There is little doubt that the polling will result in a big triumph for the Nazis. In fact, a decisive victory for the Hitlerites is confidently expected.

It is thought that they will gain about 49 per cent. of the whole electorate.

Out of 361 districts three hundred and fifty have already been counted, giving 202,737 votes, of which the Nazis secured 101,577. The Social Democrats rank second best with 36,000.

BIG GAINS.

Later.

It is certain that the Nazis have captured at least 35 of the 72 seats in the Danzig "Parliament," their votes totalling 107,619 from a total of 215,132, which trebles their 1930 figures.

The Social Democrats secured 38,210 votes, the Centreists 31,504 votes, the Communists 14,800, the Black White and Red Fronts, 13,691.

FINAL RESULT.

Later.

The final results show the following composition of the new City Parliament:

Nazis	38
Soc. Democrats	13
Centreists	10
Communists	5
Government Party	4
Poles	2

THE DRAGON BOAT FESTIVAL

CELEBRATED IN TRADITIONAL STYLE

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, May 29.

Despite the National Government's mandate ordering the abolition of the lunar calendar, the Chinese yesterday celebrated the Dragon Boat Festival with as much enthusiasm as in previous years.

All the native banks were closed for the day, while the usual dragon-boats races were rowed in the muddy Whangpoo.—Reuter.

HONGKONG CELEBRATION.

Hongkong also celebrated the Dragon Boat Festival in traditional manner. This year, in fact, the display was the biggest for some considerable time.

Some very exciting races were witnessed at Aberdeen where six boats churned their way through the waters in one event.

SERIOUS CLASH IN MUKDEN

MONGOLIAN TROOPS IN REVOLT

Peking, May 29.

Delayed messages report serious disturbances in Mukden where over 1,000 newly-enlisted Mongolian soldiers threw the City into a state of confusion. Many residences were looted.

It is understood that the Mongolians, some of whom were former bandits, revolted as soon as the Manchukuo authorities supplied them with arms and ammunition. Fighting occurred between them and Manchukuo troops, with heavy casualties on both sides.

The Manchukuo authorities now have the situation in hand. The majority of the rebels were disarmed.

Woodin Resignation Rumours Persist

WAR DEBT MESSAGE TO CONGRESS.

PRESIDENT ALSO PLANS TARIFF REVISION

Washington, May 28.

President Roosevelt has planned to deliver a war debt message to Congress before the adjournment which is scheduled for June 10.

Senator Robinson, the Democrat leader, announced after a talk at the White House, that the President expects to submit to Congress a resolution authorising him to revise tariff rates.—Reuter.

RODOSTO OUT OF THE DERBY

WINNER OF 2,000 GUINEAS

A MUCH-FANCIED CANDIDATE

London, May 28.

Rodosto, winner of the Two Thousand Guineas and a favourite for the Derby has been scratched and will not take part in the Epsom classic.

This decision was reached after a veterinary examination of the horse this afternoon.

The decision to scratch Rodosto from the Derby was taken by its owner, Princess de Faucigny Lucigne before her trainer's departure from Paris for England this morning.

"There is nothing else to do," she said, "for a Derby horse must not have the slightest thing wrong with him."

STRAINED MUSCLE.

"Rodosto is stiff and has strained a muscle. I don't know how badly."

"I shall have him brought back in a day or two and examined by a veterinary surgeon at Chantilly. It is a pity as it was the chance of a lifetime. Rodosto's pace would have given him a great advantage, and I am sure he could have stood the course."

SON OF EPINARD.

Rodosto is the son of the famous Epinard, and his magnificent running in the Two Thousand Guineas marked the horse down as the most likely winner of the Derby.

The horse was quoted favourite at 100 to 9 in the earliest of the Derby call-overs.

Had the nominee run on Wednesday, he would have had a big chance of being the second French horse to win the Derby. Durbar II was the last French entry to win the classic as far back as 1914.—Reuter.

MR. WOODIN'S PANTS

FOR "HOTTEST SEAT IN WASHINGTON"

Denver, Colorado.

Mr. Woodin, U.S. Secretary of the Treasury has a pair of asbestos pants.

The former secretary, Mr. Ogden Mills, is said to have warned Mr. Woodin, when he took office that he was sitting in "the hottest seat in Washington," and advised him to wear asbestos pants. Days later they met. "You're right," said Mr. Woodin. "I need 'em."

An enthusiastic Democrat got busy. He had his mother make a pair, the size of shorts, and sent them to Mr. Woodin, with the hope that they were a perfect fit.—Reuter.

FLIGHT TO BRITISH WEST AFRICA

Latvians Carrying Special Mails

Riga, May 28.

The two Latvian airmen, Pullins and Zelms took off to-day on route to Gambia, British West Africa, in an aeroplane equipped with a British 98 hours power Cirrus motor.

They are not attempting a record, but are carrying special mails.—Reuter.

GERMAN WOMAN FLIER KILLED

ALEPPO LANDING TRAGEDY

Aleppo, May 28.

Fraulein Marga von Etzdorf, the well-known German airwoman, was killed to-day in a crash landing at the Aleppo aerodrome.

She left Berlin unexpectedly yesterday morning for Australia, via Slam, and had made marvellous time. She appeared over the aerodrome here at 6.17 p.m. this evening, but when descending crashed owing apparently to an error of judgment.

The machine was badly smashed. The airwoman was extricated safely, but she died later.

ONLY 25 YEARS OLD.

Fraulein von Etzdorf, whose real name was Wolf, was only 25 years of age. She was born in Berlin in August 1907, her father being an army officer.

Her first flight was made in November, 1926, as a passenger with a ticket that had been presented to her.

She was so fascinated by it that a month later she entered a school of aviation at Staken to be trained.

By December, 1927, she had secured a certificate and soon got employment as a second pilot on the Lufthansa service between Berlin, Stuttgart and Basle, covering over 6,000 miles.

At Wurzburg in 1928 she took her diploma in trick flying. Two years later she was fourth in the first German women's "stunting" contest. She was also the first woman to qualify in the art of gliding, which she did at Spai-chingen in Wurttemberg in the summer of 1929.

EARLY FLIGHTS.

After obtaining a first class pilot's certificate in 1930 she flew alone to Constantinople in her own 80 h.p. Junkers plane. Her next feat was to fly in November and December from Berlin to Spain, Africa and Tenerife, returning via Tunis. For this Prof. Junkers awarded her the Junkers gold brooch and a model of her aeroplane.

The International League of Airwomen elected her an honorary member, while the German Air League gave her its badge in gold.

On August 18, 1931, she began a solo flight in her Junkers machine "Kieck in die Welt" from Berlin to Japan. She covered the 7,000 miles to Tokyo in twelve days, her route being Moscow, Omsk, Irkutsk, Mukden and Seoul and her daily average about 625 miles. She returned via the southern route passing through Hongkong.—Reuter.

ISHII ON BOYCOTT

THREAT TO ENTIRE WORLD

PLAN FOR COMING CONFERENCE

Washington, May 28.

Viscount Ishii, who is going to London to attend the World Economic Conference, arrived at New York from Washington to-day, and talked of little else than the Chinese anti-Japanese boycott.

He met members of the Press at a special conference and indicated that he would present to the World Economic Conference a plan to meet the Chinese policy of exclusion against Japan.

Viscount Ishii classed the Chinese boycott as the foremost world trade obstacle and said he had an idea as to how it could be overcome.

He saw the boycott as a threat to the entire world and he added that if the idea was sufficiently developed, he may propose it at the Economic Conference.

The Japanese leader did not give a hint regarding the basis of the idea.—Reuter.

SAFE TRAVELLING IN CHINA

SMILE BETTER THAN A REVOLVER

London.

Viscountess Gladstone spoke of a visit she had paid to China at a luncheon at the National Liberal Club.

"It is far safer to travel through China with a smile than with a pistol," she said. "It will get you much farther in greater safety."

"The Chinese do not care much about war. That there have been civil wars is true, but there have not been so many battles."

Little Entente States in Militant Mood

READY TO DEFEND FRONTIERS

ANTI-ITALIAN COMPLEXION

London, May 28.

Feeling is running high in the Little Entente countries and Poland as a result of the Four-Power Pact negotiations and its implication of treaty revision.

In Belgrade, particularly, excitement is intense. It is taking a definite anti-Italian complexion, relations between Italy and Jugoslavia having been delicate for some considerable time.

Shouts of "Down with Italy! Down with the Four-Power Pact!" were raised at a mass meeting held in Belgrade to-day when 25,000 citizens and peasants from all parts of Jugoslavia held a protest meeting against the suggestion for a revision of the Peace Treaties.

READY TO FIGHT.

Meanwhile, at Geneva, the delegates of the Little Entente countries, speaking in their different tongues, all denounced the idea of treaty revision.

They declared that they would fight if necessary to defend their frontiers, which they secured with such great sacrifices.—Reuter.

AUSTRO-GERMAN TENSION

MINISTER LEAVES BERLIN

TOURIST VISA SITUATION

Berlin, May 28.

Relations between Germany and Austria appear to be becoming strained.

The Austrian Minister to Berlin, Dr. Tauschitz, has left for Vienna, for the purpose, it is stated, of reporting to his government on the situation created by the Nazi measures for dissuading German tourists from visiting Austria.

The action taken by Herr Hitler is that of ordering an imposition of a fee of one thousand marks for the visas of all Germans visiting Austria.

This is retaliation following the repressive measures of the Dollfus Government against the movement in Austria and the Austrian Government could reception of Dr. Franks.—Reuter.

England's Oldest Aviator

"GRANNY" STROUD AGED 66

London.

"Granny" Stroud, aged 66, is the oldest pilot in England. And she has just learned to fly.

Mrs. Stroud, who thinks it is never too late to learn anything became interested in aviation through her son, who is an ardent pilot. She decided she would like to fly a machine herself and her first time up in an aeroplane was her first flying lesson.

She had no fears and her grasp of the controls was as firm and as confident as that of a young woman. She has only had a few lessons but she can handle the machine in the air like an expert.

She raced her young grandson, aged thirteen, to see which of them would learn to fly first. They had the same instructor and the same machine. The contest ended in a tie, for the boy, the youngest pilot in the country, is also capable of flying solo.—Reuter.

MRS. LANDAU IMPROVING

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

GLORIFYING YOURSELF.

By Alicia Hart

Bright flowers dot the way these days.
Bright lipstick takes the place of dull red ones.

The new make-up calls for clear, bright reds. They have youth in them, for the oldest face, provided they are just the right red for a given person.

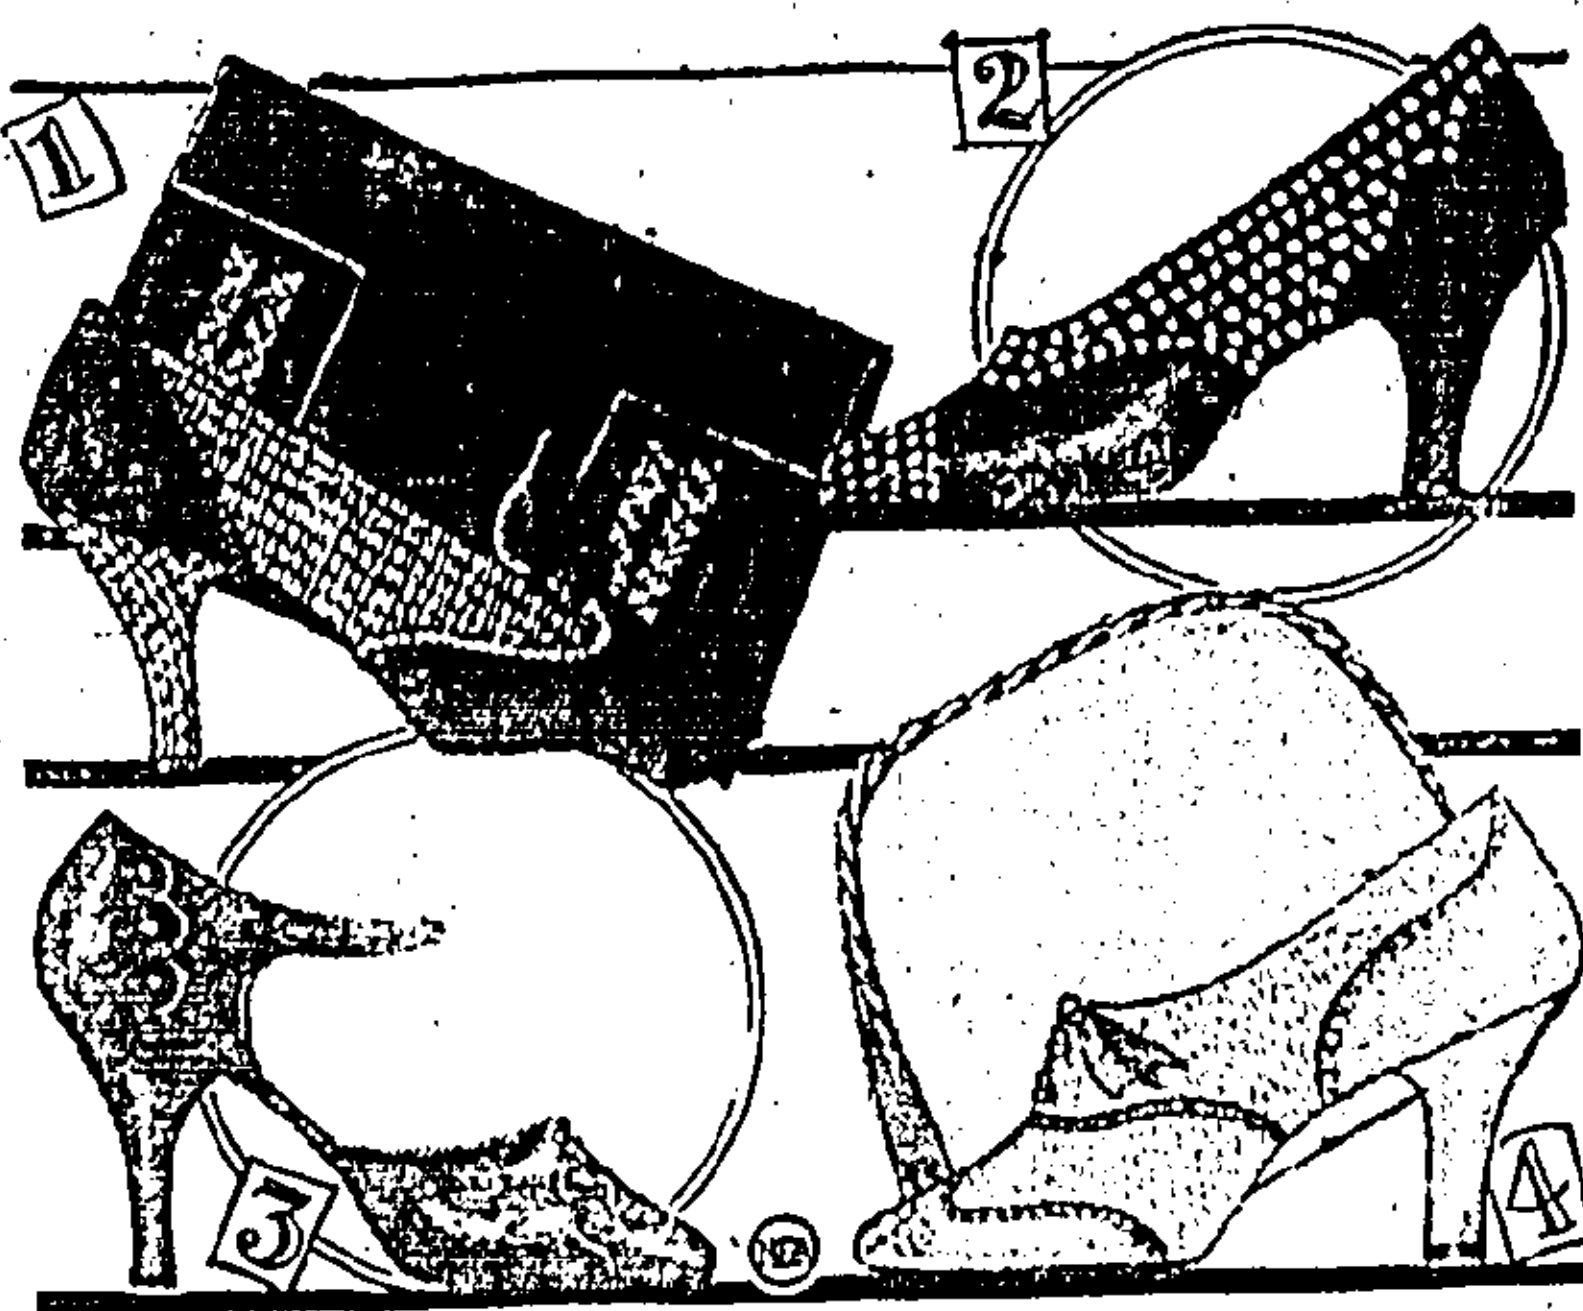

Never pick a lipstick in the dark. Practically anything else may be given the benefit of the doubt. But not lipstick! The wrong one makes you look so very artificial. Leave that to the new hats—you'll have to look your very best to get away with some of them!

Do lipstick the inside of your lips, please. Nothing looks grimmer than a lady whose mouth in repose is perfect but when she opens her lips, there's a bluish-gray line just beyond the red that reveals her true self. Lick your lips about a bit, when you finish doing them, then smooth off the edges. That's the only way to make them look a bit natural.

Remember, if your upper lip is really too full, don't lipstick it quite to its upper edge. Go easy on the entire lipstick process. If your mouth is much too wide, then taper the lower and upper edges a speck and just smooth it with your finger to the edge, not using the lipstick itself on them.

There are new lipsticks that are waterproof and last the whole day through. Why not try them?

CHIC, COMFORT MARCH SIDE BY SIDE

By Joan Savoy

Shoes this year go in for comfort, for style and for some new little ideas of their own about fabrics, colour, novelty ways of making themselves part of a costume and indispensable to its chic.

There are oxfords and pumps for practical and formal daytime wear. One-strapped sandals for those women who like a dressy touch to the feet. Tongue pumps, one-eyelet pumps (really a low-cut oxford), and hand-made oxfords come in all the new basic costume colours, with blue and grey predominating.

There undoubtedly will be more feet stepping along in grey this year than ever have been before. Plum and green are in the race, but not nearly so many of them. Deep, ruddy browns, soft leaf browns, in-between-beige-and-brown-browns—these are very smart with both blue and brown costumes, not to mention beige things.

For an all black costume or a black and white one, a novelty tongue-pump (No. 1 in the sketch) uses a plaid fabric with black kid to give a handsome bit of footwear. The purse is black, with little insets of the plaid, to make it the perfect accompaniment to the pumps.

For your blue suit, this polka dotted blue pump (2) is a boon. Its polka dots are ingenious—square eyelets in the blue kid reveal white underlying kid—giving the polka dotted effect. The tip and top of the pump is dotted, the vamp and the heel are blue.

Shoes that employ buttons and buttonholes for decoration are very new and intriguing. This one (3) is brown kid, piped in beige, with beige buttons slipping through beige-outlined holes, in the vamp and the quarter. It is the newest kind of a strapped sandal, just a delicate, slender little strap to hold it fast to the ankle, very dressy.

Very new is the grey cloth shoe (4) made of a fine rep. with matching grey kid toe and quarter, all beautifully stitched with the new punch work. This oxford has a very comfortable leather heel, ties with grey grosgrain ribbon laces. With it there is a handsome grey kid purse with a twisted gold frame.

It's Time for "Facial Gardening."

Hard Scrubbing Will Rid Your Pores of Grime and Grit

By Alicia Hart

Spring blackheads should be routed out with the same persistence going after that the good gardener gives weeds.

They are quite comparable to weeds, as a matter of fact. For, like weeds, get a few of them and let them go and your whole face looks bad before you know it.

Scrupulous scrubbing is the best way to start out after blackheads. Use fairly warm water, either a brush or a good knobby washrag, and medicated soap. Don't forget the medicated part—there are certain soaps specially prepared just for such emergencies as blackheads.

Instead of pinching your blackheads between fingers or prying them with a needle, try scrubbing the entire surface with your soap and water. You'll not get them out the first morning or night. But keep after it. They are just pores stopped with dirt and the little oily secretions that have collected in the enlarged pores. Free them from the dirt, then close them up by cold water or an antiseptic that has shrinking qualities and you'll find it is successful.

Some chemists now sell a gritty pore cream which is excellent if you have a persistent case of blackheads. This secures out the face but naturally it is hard on it, so use the softest, kindest cream you have afterward.

Once they are all out, start getting your skin in good order. Use stimulation creams and pat them in. Also there are so-called detergents which close pores successfully, but they too need softening creams used afterward.

LOVE or MONEY?

BY H. W. CORLEY

CHAPTER XLII

The maid had brought Mona and Lottie up the uncarpeted stairs into the wide halls above. From the landing swung a huge window of shutters which, open now and made fast by means of a rope, looked out on a riot of blossoming hibiscus. Intense greens were dotted with crimson pink and yellow. A soft breeze stirred the trees, sending in showers of perfume.

The rooms on the second floor were high and, above the doors, were latticed to the ceiling. At either side of each door there were shutters spaced to let in air. The effect was one of marvellous coolness.

"You can't tell secrets here!" Lottie remarked, eyeing this arrangement. "Heavens, a whisper would be all over the house. I hope nobody uses an alarm clock!"

From the windows of the bedroom they could glimpse the sea. It lay shimmering like a softly swaying bit of blue satin rimmed with silver. A necklace of palms fringed the beach and a white boat swung with the lazy tide.

The room contained few pieces of furniture. A huge bed draped with netting stood in the centre of the farther wall. There was a dresser, two easy chairs of rattan and a table. Mona noted with satisfaction that the room was lighted with electricity and that the bed had a reading lamp attached to its head.

"But there's no bath!" Lottie cried, pointing to a wash stand. Josie had hung towels about and disappeared with two huge pitchers.

Lottie's room, connecting by door and by outer balcony, was similar to Mona's.

A knock on the door announced the arrival of the baggage and Florence entered, dragging suitcases and hat boxes after her. The boys, she explained, had brought it to the door but it seemed best not to allow them to disturb Madame.

Josie appeared almost immediately carrying pitchers of hot water. Mona and Lottie bathed, opening suitcases in search of pajamas, and finally crept beneath the netting for a rest. They were asleep instantly.

Several hours later Mona awoke

suddenly. Lottie, a veritable sea nymph in green, was bending over her.

"I've been out to bathe—not in the sea, just the pool," Lottie announced. "Josie told me about it. The boys have a sort of sunken bath behind the house. It's as large as a baby swimming pool, with showers rigged up and everything. It's great!"

Half an hour later, wearing cool chiffon and dainty shoes, Mona descended the stairs. Lottie had reached the terrace just before her and sat at a small table, the silver service in front of her, quizzing the boys about their tea.

Josie, the maid, arrived with tinkling ice. Mona supposed that this must have been brought from a distant port at great expense until Lottie explained that the kitchen was outfitted with an electric refrigerator. She had made a second tour of investigation and was prepared to answer questions.

Barry and Steve, in fresh linens and sleek of hair, rose as Mona approached. It was cool on the terrace. The glare of the sunlight was softened and a gentle breeze played.

"Tea, Mona," Lottie inquired. She was perfectly at home here.

"Hot or cold?"

"Cold," Mona decided.

"I don't see how anyone can drink hot tea here," observed Lottie. "There is lemon or lime. Which do you prefer?"

"Let me arrange her place, Lottie," Barry said. He put down a plate of tiny cakes and took possession of the tea table. "I know what Mona likes."

It was a small courtesy yet it made Mona's heart leap as she watched. The long months seemed suddenly to have faded. She had never—really—been married to Barry's uncle. Here they were—she and Lottie, Barry and Steve—on an outing just as they had been so often before.

Things would be all right, she was sure. Barry would forgive her for everything. Some time very soon she could explain all that had happened. Now she would relax and enjoy herself.

Her dream was broken abruptly. Barry held the tumbler jacked with mint out to the maid and, indicating Mona, said, "Give this to Mrs. Townsend."

Mrs. Townsend! He might have said nothing, leaving it to the maid's deduction whom the glass was intended for, or he might have handed her the glass himself.

Mrs. Townsend! That name which might have been so sweet was a reproach.

They heard a pounding on the carpeted stairs, a sudden clatter on the verandah and Bud, freshly dressed and glowing after his recent swim, joined them.

"Tea?" Lottie asked. "Did you have a good swim, Bud?"

"No ten, thanks. Yes, I had a fine swim." To Barry he said, "I'm going down to the plane. Is that o. k.?"

Barry nodded and Bud swung himself into the rickety automobile and started off.

He called back, "Bobby Jones won't like you if we keep landing on the fairway, Barry! How's the airport coming?"

"Not very well. Maybe I'll get you to handle it," Barry answered amiably.

"Any time you say," called Bud. "He drives well, doesn't he?" said Mona, watching him career out through the gate on a single wheel and disappear in a tunnel of green trees beyond.

"He does everything well," Barry replied. "It's a great idea to send him down here. Been a big help to us. I guess Bud was just about at the turning point. He was all set to amount to something—either something pretty fine or just the opposite."

THEATRE COLLAPSE.

SHANGHAI MISHAP CAUSE OF 30 CASUALTIES

Shanghai, May 28.

More than 30 casualties were caused when a Chinese theatre in Chapel collapsed this afternoon while a performance was in full swing.

Fire broke out, increasing the panic, among the audience which madly stampeded for safety.—Reuter.

Mona nodded in agreement. "It was awfully good of you," she said softly. "I don't believe I've ever thanked you."

"Oh, we've had our thanks all right. Bud himself, looking as he does to-day, is thanks enough."

There was coolness in Barry's tone and Mona felt it. She was silent for some time.

Then after a little she said, "Does he handle any of the selling for you?"

Barry nodded again. "He does and he's clever at it, too. There's a man named Horton."

How could Barry know about that? Had he seen Bud? Then she understood that of course he had while she was sleeping.

"There's a man named Horton who's a tough customer. He gave us a good price for uncut diamonds because Bud—"

"Why don't you let Bud tell her that, boy?" suggested Steve casually. He turned to Mona. "Barry is always bragging about Bud. I tell him the boy's head will be turned."

The scent of the honeysuckle came nearer and nearer. They could hear the sea spilling and crashing along the beach. Lottie, rising, beckoned Steve to join her at the edge of the terrace.

Mona was alone with Barry at last. What was he going to say? How would he begin? With reproaches? With a demand for explanations?

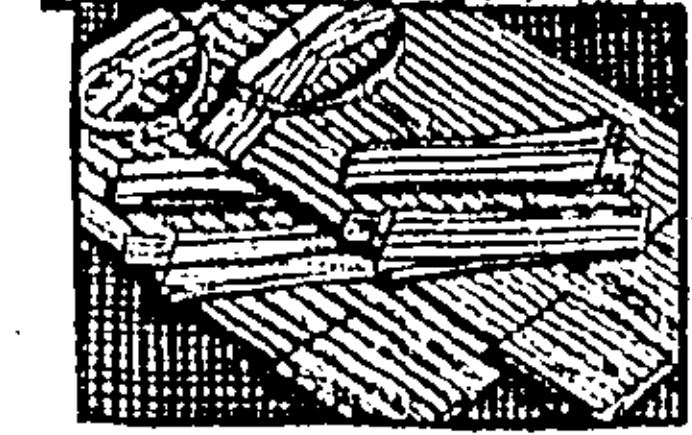

Instead Barry, too, rose from his chair. "Don't take Lottie away," he called. "I promised the girls we'd take them for a drive. We ought to be starting or it will be too late. The roadster is in order, isn't it?"

"Never better!" Steve agreed. Cupping his hands together and raising them to his mouth, he shouted, "Oh, boy! Bring around the roadster!"

AIR DISARMAMENT.

GERMAN PLEA FOR TOTAL PROHIBITION

Geneva, May 27.
The complete abolition of military aviation and the prohibition of aerial bombardment, is strongly urged by Dr. Nodolny, the German delegate at Geneva.

Addressing the General Commission of the Disarmament Conference to-day, Dr. Nodolny recalled that 14 years ago Germany destroyed all her aerial material, consisting of 15,700 aeroplanes, 27,000 motors and 647 hangars, an act which was intended to be the first step towards international disarmament.

Dr. Nodolny exclaimed, "All the world knows that, owing to the latest discoveries, the aerial arm has become the means of decisive warfare."

"It is unnecessary to move a single detachment, gun or warship in order to attack a country which did not possess aerial defences. One fleet of bombing planes could ravage and destroy it," he declared.—Reuter.

Bombing Machines

Geneva, May 28.
At the meeting of the General Commission at the Disarmament Conference to-day, Captain Eden, the British delegate, defended the use of bombing 'planes in the Colonies by Great Britain.

Replying to the protest by the Dutch, Jugo-Slav, and Swedish delegates, Captain Eden pointed out the superiority of air to land forces for police work in mountainous and sparsely populated districts.

He added that it would be impossible to suppress this point of the British plan.—Reuter.

U.S. Delegate's Criticism.

Mr. Norman Wilson, the United States delegate, criticising the British reservation of the use of bombing 'planes for police purposes, said that his government believed in the total abolition of aerial bombardment.

"The abolition must be absolute, unqualified and universal," he added. "There must be a moral sanction against all forms of aerial bombing, and any exception would violate the moral force of the sanctions."—Reuter.

MOTOR VESSEL LAUNCHED.

PULUPANDAN TAKES THE WATER LOCALLY

The steel twin screw passenger and cargo motorship Pulupandan was launched yesterday at the shipyard of the South China Motorship Building and Repairing Works, Ltd. at To Kwa Wan, Kowloon.

She has been built to the order of the De La Rama Steamship Co. Holo, and is intended for service between Holo and Pulupandan, in the Philippines.

The customary bottle of champagne was broken over the bows by Mrs. Pirovano, daughter of the owner, who performed the christening ceremony. The vessel glided smoothly down the well-greased blocks, a pleasing sight with a chaplet of greenery encircling her white superstructure and a string of crackers spluttering from her bows. A Filipino band played the Philippine National Anthem.

Afterwards the assembled directors, shipyard officials, owners' representatives and a large number of guests adjourned to a near-by shed for refreshment.

Present at the launching were Messrs. P. M. Hodgson (Chairman), J. M. Noronha, T. A. Martin, and Ho Kwong (Directors of the South China Motorship Building and Repairing Works, Ltd.), Captain G. Brant (General Manager) and Mr. J. A. Gutierrez (Secretary), Mr. and Mrs. Pirovano, Mr. L. R. Hufonso, and others.

Chairman's Speech.

Prior to the launching, Mr. P. M. Hodgson, as chairman of the shipyard company, addressed the assemblage. He said:

Ladies and gentlemen.—We are gathered here this morning to witness the launching and christening of this Steel Twin Screw passenger and cargo motor vessel, and it is with great pleasure that as Chairman of the South China Motorship Building and Repairing Works Ltd., the builders of the vessel, I have the privilege of saying a few words.

The order for this motor vessel was placed with our Company by the De La Rama Steamship Co. in Holo last year, such vessel being required for use in the inter-island trade in the Philippines and particularly the trade between Holo and Pulupandan. The vessel before you is 150 ft. in length with a gross tonnage of just under 250 tons and fitted with 2 Deutz fast Diesel Engines of 450 H.P.

On behalf of the Company, I would like to thank you all for being present at the launching of this vessel, and it is particularly satisfactory to our Company to note that we have here with us as our guests Mr. and Mrs. Pirovano, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. De La Rama, and to inform you that Mrs. Pirovano has very kindly consented to christen the vessel of her father's Company.

In asking Mrs. Pirovano to christen this vessel by the name "Pulupandan," we trust that this ship will be satisfactory in every way and stand up against all storms, and will be appreciated and liked by her passengers and owners and will be profitable and entirely fulfill the wishes of the De La Rama Steamship Co. I understand that it is the intention of Mr. De La Rama to honour our shipyard with an order for a further similar vessel on behalf of his shipping Company. I now ask Mrs. Pirovano to perform the christening ceremony.

Description of Ship.

The dimensions of the vessel are:—150 feet overall length, 27 feet moulded beam, 11 feet moulded depth with a mean load draught of 8 feet 6 inches. The gross tonnage just being under 250 tons.

The twin screw propelling machinery is located amidships and consists of two Deutz 4 cycle 6 cylinder Diesels each capable of developing 450 H.P. at 375 Revolutions per minute which should give the vessel a speed of 13½ to 14 knots.

There are two cargo holds, the forward one being served by a 3 ton electric winch with cargo derrick and gear suitable for 4 ton lifts.

For handling the anchors an electric windlass is provided and fitted forward which may be hand operated when necessary.

One 5 K.W. Volts Deutz Diesel driven Lighting Set and one 25 K.W. 220 Volts Deutz Diesel driven Generator Compressor Set are installed in the Engine Room.

The pumps are electrically driven and consist of a small Elmo Fuel Oil transfer pump, a General Service Pump, a Circulating Pump and an

ETON HEADMASTER

OLD COLLEGE SUCCEEDS DR. ALLINGTON

London, May 27.

Claude Aurelius Elliott, O.B.E., son of the late Sir Charles Elliott, K.C.S.I., former Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, has been appointed Headmaster of Eton, in succession to Dr. Allington, who has been appointed Dean of Durham.—Reuter.

Dr. Claude Aurelius Elliott, who is a Fellow and Senior Tutor of Jesus College, Cambridge, was the youngest son of the late Sir Charles Elliott. He was educated at Eton, and is, therefore, the first Eton Collegian to be Headmaster of the famous Institution since 1862, and also the first layman to be appointed for many years.

During the Great War he served with the Red Cross Unit in Flanders, later being given temporary work at the Admiralty until the Armistice was signed.

He is a Member of the University Financial Board, the General Board, and of the Council of the Senate. He married, in 1913, the daughter of the late F. T. Bloxam, Chief Chancery Registrar.

Dr. Allington's Career.

Dr. C. A. Allington who has been appointed Dean of Durham, has been headmaster of Eton since 1910. He has been Chaplain to His Majesty the King since 1921, and is a Hon. Fellow of Trinity College, Oxford. He was born in 1872, his father being the late Rev. H. G. Allington, of Cundleshay, Lincolnshire. Dr. Allington married, in 1904, the Hon. Heister Margaret, the youngest daughter of the fourth Baron Lytton, and has two sons and four daughters.

He is an author of some note, and has over twenty publications, most of them dealing with Eton College, to his credit.

FREE SCHOOL FOR LOCAL POOR.

CHARITY CONCERT HELD BY ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE

In aid of the Free School and Sports and Library Fund organised by St. John's College of Arts & Commerce, Nathan Road, a variety concert was held at the Prince's Theatre, on Saturday afternoon.

The function received the enthusiastic support of a large number of the students and their friends and well-wishers. Songs were contributed by the students, and by the Misses C. Chong, Madge Young, and J. and B. Lee; and by Messrs. C. See, Kee, H. Yip, T. Kwok, and M. S. Phoon. Miss Ruby Ma was the pianist, and Andrew Chan and his Vagabonds provided pleasing variety with their Hawaiian melodies. Mr. G. F. D'Aguino, (tenor) was another soloist whose services were much appreciated.

The second half of the programme concluded with an original contribution "Chalk Talk," by Mr. Wong Yee-yuen, one of the School artists, and with three cinema pictures. By courtesy of N. Z. Perpetual Forests, Ltd. an instructive film showing the process of converting pulp into paper was screened. The American Trade Commissioner lent a picture entitled "U.S. Army Air Corps exercises," and the Fox Film Corporation lent the well-known talkie "Sunny Side Up." All three pictures considerably added to the general attraction of the function. Thanks are also extended to Sunfreeze for their contribution of the proceeds derived from sales of ice cream in the theatre.

emergency Lubricating Oil Pump.

The vessel will shortly undergo trials and afterwards proceed to Holo to take up service, and delivery will be effected well over one month before the contracted time.

LANE, CRAWFORD'S SPORTS GOODS.

FOUND IN BOX SUPPOSED TO BE EMPTY

On the ground that they had no guilty knowledge that the goods were in the box, Mr. Wynne Jones, at the Central Magistrate's Court on Saturday, discharged two Chinese, Li Chung and Ho Ching, charged with the larceny of sporting gear to the value of about $250 from Lane Crawford's, on Friday.

The goods comprised two tennis presses, two badmington presses, two squash racket presses, two spring balls, 24 jade tapes, ten golf balls, one tennis racket frame, seven Corcora grips, and various other sporting gear. The complainant was Mr. E. J. Ansell. Sub-Inspector Bright, prosecuting, said that about 3 p.m. on Friday the two defendants were called in to the sports department to buy empty boxes. A Chinese salesman sold them three boxes, and went away. The defendants took the boxes out, but when they got to the main door, the Indian watchman arrested them and searched the boxes, finding the goods in one of them. The boxes had just been brought back from the Empire Fair and had been unpacked, and apparently these goods had been left in one of them. They were all covered with paper.

Mr. Wynne-Jones.—How would they know that they were stealing?

Sub-Inspector Bright.—They knew perfectly well that the boxes were not empty. The first defendant was carrying one box, and the second two.

Mr. Wynne-Jones.—How are you going to suggest that the first defendant actually knew the boxes were there. The only person to know that would be the second defendant, who could tell by the weight of the box.—The salesman is responsible for the boxes being cleared of the goods, but apparently he did not do so in this case.

The defendants both pleaded guilty to the charge of larceny, but on Mr. Wynne-Jones asking them whether they knew what they were pleading to, both said they had been called in to buy the boxes. Mr. Wynne-Jones then decided to hear evidence.

Salesman's Evidence.

Sui So-ching, salesman, said that at 2.30 p.m. on Friday he sent for the second defendant to buy empty boxes. Defendant came with the first defendant, and bought three boxes, the first defendant paying for them. Witness did not examine the boxes, because after they had been brought back from the Fair they had been opened and the goods taken out and the boxes put aside for sale. Later first defendant came up and informed him that the Indian watchman at the door had found some goods in the boxes. The boxes were covered with wrapping paper. He did not know how these goods happened to be in the boxes. First defendant told him he did not know there was anything inside the boxes. The boxes had no wooden lids on them.

An Indian watchman gave evidence of having stopped the defendants and search the boxes, finding the goods in one of them.

S. I. Bright.—In this case, the defendants went down by the main stairway, when they should

ARMS EMBARGO.

UNITED STATES ACT GIVES NECESSARY POWER

Washington, May 28.

The Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate has approved the Bill authorising the President to declare an embargo against the exportation of arms.

The bill has already passed the House of Representatives Committee, which adopted the Senate amendment that such embargo shall operate against both parties to any conflict, in order to safeguard the neutrality of the United States.—Reuter.

TROUBLE AHEAD.

Controversial Topics At Geneva.

SECRETARIAT'S WOES.

Geneva, May 28.

The General Commission of the Disarmament Conference tomorrow will deal with the security of nations and will reach one of the most controversial subjects on its agenda the plan, namely, Article Six, dealing with mutual assistance pacts. The attitude of Germany and Italy during the discussion in Committee offers little hope of an easy solution of this question.

The discussion is expected to reveal the widest divergencies among the views of European groupings.

May Adjourn.

A local newspaper publishes the rumour of the possibility of the Economic Conference transferring to Geneva after a fortnight in London, owing to the difficulty of the secretariat in coping with two big conferences simultaneously and in the event of the Disarmament Conference not adjourning before June 10.

Mr. Davis, the American delegate, is strongly pressing for no more than a fortnight's interruption and League quarters are arguing in favour of simultaneous meetings. Geneva and other quarters favour adjournment until Autumn.—Reuter.

M. Litvinoff Acting for Russia

Moscow, May 28.

M. Litvinoff, Foreign Commissar for Soviet Russia, has gone to Geneva to attend the Disarmament Conference.

From there he will go to London for the Economic Conference on June 12. Meanwhile M. Kresinsky is acting Foreign Commissar.—Reuter.

have by right gone down by the back exit.

Remarking that the defendants had no guilty knowledge of the contents, Mr. Wynne-Jones discharged them. The goods were ordered to be returned to Lane Crawford's.

DANCING DISPLAY AT KING'S THEATRE.

PUPILS OF MISS V. CAPELL TO PERFORM

A splendid dress rehearsal yesterday morning augurs well for the success of the tenth annual dancing display by the pupils of Miss Violet Capell, to be given at the King's Theatre next Wednesday, commencing at 5.15 p.m. sharp. The display is under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Peel, and part of the proceeds will be distributed among local charities and to the London Hospital.

Nearly seventy pupils, from the more experienced to the tiniest tot, are participating, and in the finale an ensemble, entitled "In Black and White," which is indeed effective, the entire number appear. In this Miss Violet Capell herself appears and performs a graceful dance with her sister, Miss Phyllis Capell.

The musical accompaniment throughout is pleasing, with Miss E. Banker at the piano, assisted by Mrs. Schroeder and Mr. F. Abraham, violinists.

Ensembles, duets, pas-seuls and jazz are well entered for, and the great care that has been expended in their arrangement is rewarded by a well balanced programme, which will be presented in two parts. Of special merit is the trio "Waltz" danced by Stella Ho, Audrey Ho and Helen Ho, in the second half of the entertainment. Owing to indisposition, Miss Rachel Wong, one of Miss Capell's best pupils, was unable to dance her solo, "Sun", which is the eighth number on the programme, at the rehearsal.

It is to be noted that only pupils doing solos or duets will be handed flowers on the stage, on Wednesday. Flowers, etc., received for other pupils will be handed to them behind the stage at the conclusion of the performance. This procedure has been found necessary owing to the short time at their disposal, as the display will have to finish in time for the 7.15 p.m. cinema show.

RURALISING THE THEATRES

LATEST SOVIET THEORY

COMPANIES SENT ON TOUR

Moscow.

If peasants cannot come to the theatre, the theatre must go to the peasants.

And when the theatre has been taken to the peasants it should put before them plays dramatising such vital things in their lives as the Spring sowing campaign.

This is the reasoning behind an extensive movement for touring rural theatres now in progress in Soviet Russia, according to the Tass Agency.

A large number of special companies have been formed to tour from farm to farm in the farthest corners of the U.S.S.R. to perform the best Soviet plays.

The "Art Institutions" of each separate Soviet Republic are also making preparations for regular theatrical performances in rural districts.

The Ukrain for example, has organised for this purpose 127 theatrical companies and 36 "Movin Brigades". The little Moldavian Republic has five big theatrical companies touring through its villages.

In Kharkoy, the biggest theatres have prepared a number of special plays, dedicated to the spring sowing campaign, which they will perform in Ukrainian villages, while the actors in far distant Uzbekistan are doing active work in the same direction.

Thirty theatres have been attached to the main cotton growing districts and will tour round the state farms and collective farms where they will perform. The Uzbekistan Cinema Trust has also sent 100 travelling cinemas and a number of "photographers" brigades" to various districts for the sowing season.—Reuter.

WORLD'S CHAMPION "TEETOTALLER"

Chicago's Collector of Golf Tees

Chicago, Illinois.

The world's most enthusiastic "teetotaler" is Mr. George Klewer, a Chicago architect.

He is a collector of golf tees.

Every golf course has its quota of club swingers who make a practice of collecting tees abandoned by the players just ahead. But there is no one else in the world, he claims, who has made it a hobby.

In his collection there are 802 distinct varieties of tees. There are tees from all parts of the world, tees simple and complex, tees made of materials ranging from wood to the residue of corn products manufacturing.

STRANGE HOBBY.

He began his strange hobby five years ago. He explains that he is a member of that old school which holds that for a golfer to purchase tees is about as silly as for a lawn-tender to buy dandelions.

"I've bought tees only once in my golfing career," he said.

Among the unusual tees in the collection is one made of sterling silver with a chain attached. Another has a double head, one superimposed on the other.

The idea is that if you knock one head off, you still have the other. That is, if you find the tee after the stroke.

"Golfers will do queer things to prevent loss of their tees," Mr. Klewer said. "This one, for instance."

And he picked up one which was fitted with tassels and threw it. It looked like a whirligig in flight. "They'll be putting whistles on them next," he commented. "But they'll lose them and I'll find them."—Reuter.

CONVICTS' ULTIMATUM

EXTRAORDINARY DEMANDS

WIRELESS IN EACH CELL

Prisoners in Barcelona gaol, many of whom are confined for political offences, have delivered an ultimatum to the authorities. They announce a "general revolutionary escape"—unless they have:

A daily bath, A wireless in each cell, Female attendants to do the cooking and clean the cells. Men's which cost 1s. a head instead of 9d., and Restoration of the prison library, which was burned by prisoners during disturbances some time ago.

WHAT THE 1933 CHILD READS

GIRLS LIKE BOYS' PAPERS

London.

Mr. Geoffrey Richard Pocklington, after nine years of writing for boys and girls in all parts of the world, is resigning his editorship of the Boy's Own Paper, which has been in existence more than fifty years.

In his comments on things that interest the boy of 1933 he said:

"Anything mechanical appeals to the modern boy. He likes to move with the times. Where he used to like steam engines he now prefers aeroplanes. Once we taught him how to make rabbit hutchers—now we explain supersonic heterodyne wireless sets.

"Adventure stories are still popular but they must have a modern note with, say, a submarine. The Red Indian is not the hero he once was and Wild West themes have been largely eclipsed by other things.

"There is not a very large demand for war stories. After all, the boy of 14 knows nothing of the war—it is as remote to him as Waterloo or the Crimea.

"But he likes stories of foreign countries and he has a very highly-developed sense of humour. School stories are always popular but they must be about up-to-date schools. The blazers, caps and shorts must be those of a modern school, not the discarded type of jacket and stiff collar that prevailed years ago.

"Funny enough girls read a boys' paper in enormous numbers and I should not be surprised if half our readers were girls—the kind of athletic girl who likes boyish stories."—Reuter.

YACHTSMEN DROWNED

ONE DIES FROM EXPOSURE AFTER SWIM ASHORE

Wellington, N.Z.

Three young men out of a party of four were lost when the yacht Mizpah, in which they were sailing from Auckland to Wellington, was driven ashore near Porangahau (Hakes Bay) and broke to pieces in a violent storm.

The only survivor, Mr. C. Harris, who managed to swim ashore, said that he and his companions were washed overboard. "I gripped a box," Mr. Harris continued, "and was washed ashore exhausted. I regained warmth by rubbing myself vigorously with sand, and afterwards made inland, running as far as I could."

In the darkness he eventually located a telephone line, and, following it, was guided to a settler's home, where he was tended.

The naked body of one of his friends, Mr. J. Hurrell, was found a mile inland to-day. It is supposed that he managed to swim to land, struggled on to the beach, and attempted to make his way inland, but that, overcome by blinding rain and exhaustion, he died of exposure.—Reuter.

ROBOT THAT READS MACHINE WITH EYE AND VOICE

A Leningrad student has invented an electrical machine which will "read in a human voice" ordinary printed, typewritten or handwritten words.

The apparatus is intended to help the blind to read, to act as an automatic teacher, answer telephone calls, announce visitors, and act as a faultless prompter in the theatre. The inventor's name is Vassiliev. He studies at the Leningrad Electro-Technical Institute.

Professor X. D. Archipianetay has invented an apparatus which will broadcast heartbeats, and he claims it will enable a specialist to make a diagnosis from hundreds of miles away.

JOINT STATEMENT.

BY U.S. PRESIDENT AND JAPANESE DELEGATE

Washington, May 28.

After the final conference before the departure of the Japanese delegation for Geneva, Viscount Ishii, and President Roosevelt, issued a joint statement, as follows:

"We concur in the view that economic stability and political tranquility are complementary, and the essentials for a sound basis for both are peace.

"An economic military disarmament is needed for their attainment. We hope that countries in the Far East, and those in the Occident, will be able to contribute substantially in a spirit of co-operation in laying a solid foundation for the structure of world peace and prosperity.

"We are in complete concurrence that in place of the existing monetary chaos there should be established by international effort an orderly regime, and that unreasonable obstacles to the flow of trade and capital should be removed and adequately safeguarded against.

"We consider it highly desirable that the price of silver should be reasonably enhanced and silver exchange established.

"We look forward to the convening of the World Economic Conference and the Disarmament Conference, resolved to contribute,

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

More than 100,000 people, among them eight of the screen's leading stars, appear in "State Fair", showing at the King's Theatre to-day.

The stars are Janet Gaynor, Will Rogers, Lew Ayres, Sally-Ellers, Norman Foster, Louise Dresser, Frank Craven and Victor Jory. Miss Gaynor, Rogers, Foster and Miss Dresser are seen as members of a Midwest farm family enjoying their annual outing at the State Fair. Ayres plays a newspaper reporter who covers the fair for his paper. Miss Ellers portrays a carnival trapeze artist, Craven characterizes a country storekeeper and Jory appears as a hiker. The characters of "State Fair" are the sort of people you meet and talk with every day.

There is at least one in the group that every person will understand particularly well. It may be the pretty farm girl played by Janet Gaynor, the farmer portrayed by Will Rogers or the carnival girl that Sally Ellers characterizes. Somewhere every person who sees the picture will recognize an especially kindred spirit.

"State Fair" is the screen version of Phil Stone's Literary Guild prize novel.

Madison Square Garden

Being penny-wise hurts. But it pays.

That conclusion has been reached by Thomas Meighan, the noted screen star, featured with Jack Oakie, Marian Nixon, Warren Hymer, William Collier, Sr., William Boyd and Zasu Pitts in "Madison Square Garden," a drama set against the kaleidoscopic background of New York's famed civic, social and athletic centre, which comes as next change for the Queen's Theatre.

Meighan is rated as one of the wealthiest actors in the country. He owns extensive estates at Great Neck, L.I., and East Port Richie, Fla. When he feels the urge to work he accepts one of the numerous screen contracts offered him. And there are enough to permit him to choose only good ones. Otherwise, he can rest and play.

In "Madison Square Garden," he plays the role of Carley, millionaire president of "The Garden." The picture, like "Grand Hotel," "Union Depot," and others of the one location type, deals with a group of people of diversified backgrounds who glide briefly into the action, and then out again, which they have participated in the story of the arrival at "The Garden" of a manager and two proteges, and the latter's love affairs with two girl telegraph operators, binds the action together.

"Afraid to Talk"

In order to provide a realistic background for the dramatic now showing at the Central Theatre, Universal constructed practically an entire city hall inside one of its enormous sound stages.

Characteristic offices of city officials, court rooms and all the interesting departments of a municipal administration building were reproduced, supplying audiences with a cinematic tour of a large city's governmental seat. Additional sets depicting the elaborate cafe and night clubs where in much of the city's destinies are hatched required the erection of no less than three different sets where three entirely separate entertainment shows and orchestras performed.

Eric Linden and Sidney Fox are co-featured in "Afraid to Talk," supported by Tully Marshall, Louis Calhern, Mayo Methol, and other popular film artists. Edward Cahn directed.

"The Golden West"

It isn't necessary to walk bow-legged and say "that-a-way" to be a western movie star. George O'Brien has proven it.

One of the most successful portrayals of western hero roles on the screen, this handsome son of a San Francisco police official speaks the correct, clear-cut kind of English they teach undergraduates at Santa Clara University.

He takes himself to a barber at least once a week, and in his screen work not only refrains from drinking but also from smoking. As a matter of fact, this is no hardship for he does neither off the screen.

Quiet, soft spoken and usually smiling, the son of Daniel J. O'Brien,

"Madame Butterfly"

The poignant beauty of "Madame Butterfly," Paramount's latest production with Sylvia Sydney, Cary Grant and Charlie Ruggles in the leading roles, is to be seen at the Queen's Theatre.

This inspired love tale from John Luther Long's famous story, of a real geisha girl who actually lived, is real universal in its appeal. The production has been deftly handled with a keen appreciation for all the beauty in the original story.

Miss Sydney plays the role of Cho-Cho-San. Cary Grant is in the role of the American naval officer.

FENG WILL FIGHT.

REFUSAL TO ACCEPT TRUCE

Nanking, May 27. Reports from Peking state that General Feng Yu-hsiang issued a circular telegram from Kaigan to-day announcing the assumption of the post of Commander-in-Chief of the peoples against the Japanese and the allied forces "in accordance with the wishes of the masses in various places."

General Feng strongly criticises the Government for its alleged lack of determination and definite plans to resist the Japanese effectively.

He states that the authorities, instead of devising plans for a counter-attack, are trying to negotiate a compromise in order to gain temporary security.

He further declares that he will lead "like-minded" soldiers to defend Chaghar and effect the recovery of lost territory.

It is understood that in addition to a bodyguard of 3,000, General Feng is supported by General Fang Chen-wu, who recently arrived at Hsuanhua, southward of Kaigan, with 4,000 men.

It is reported that General Sun Tien-yung, who fought against the Japanese at Chifeng and Jehol, is also allied with General Feng.

Well-informed Chinese circles are of the opinion that General Feng's action is likely to complicate the situation in North China.—Reuter.

Truce Negotiations

Tokyo, May 27.

Reiterating that Japan's objective is solely to ensure the peace and security of the Manchukuo border along the Great Wall and that she has no intention to take the War Office to-day issued a communique stating that truce negotiations between the Chinese and Japanese Armies had begun.

Declaring Japan's readiness to negotiate with any responsible and sincere Chinese, the communique asserts that Japan is prepared for either peace or war, consequently the outcome of the negotiations depends entirely on the Chinese attitude.—Reuter.

Troops Retiring

Peking, May 27.

Apparently pursuant to the recent verbal truce, both the Chinese and Japanese troops have continued their withdrawal from the Tunchow area, a Chinese communique reporting that the Japanese are now ten miles east of the city, while the Chinese troops are quartered at the same distance to the west.

Only a small Chinese force is remaining inside the city for policing purposes.—Reuter.

Bandit Gun-Men

Peking, May 27.

While Peking continues to be very calm, the Authorities in Tientsin appear having a very difficult time with the plainclothes gunmen.

Chinese reports describe an attack on the Tangku station by armed men who were repulsed after hours of engagement yesterday.

Simultaneously, an attack was made by another armed band in the suburbs of Tientsin but this also proved to be unsuccessful. Yet another attack was made by Kuo Chun between Tangku and Tientsin.

Two hundred gunmen are reported to be landing from junks in the Haiho, but the Chinese forces on the shore killed ten of them as they landed, while others fell into the river and were drowned.—Reuter.

Fight Plainclothesmen.

Peking, May 28.

A Chinese communique reports that an attempt was made this morning by Chinese gunmen to seize the Chinese garrison at Haipeng west of Taku. General Ma Ching-fu, former brigade commander under General Yu Hsueh-chung, entered the Headquarters of the regiment and declared that he had been promoted

DARING SEIZURE

JAPANESE SHIP PIRATED IN NORTH

Harbin, May 27.

Suave and polished and obviously well-educated, a Chinese pirate, speaking with fluent ease, the Japanese and French languages directed operations on board the Japanese steamer, Hoshun Maru, when the vessel was seized and plundered in the Gulf of Pechihli.

The pirate chief was assisted by an equally striking aide-de-camp, the pair taking complete charge of the steamer.

The outrage was one of the most sensational ever perpetrated in North China waters, many other craft being attacked and plundered with the appropriated vessel.

When the attack took place, the Hoshun Maru was proceeding to Dairen with 1,000 Chinese refugees passengers, and 21 pirates who were mingled with the passengers took complete control of the ship in a few minutes.

All the passengers were robbed of their portable valuables and the loot is said to amount to a large sum, since the refugees had sold their cumbersome property before evacuating. The ship's safe was also rifled.

According to the escaped passengers, who arrived at Dairen to-day, the pirates, loaded with their heavy loot, left the ship when they reached shallow water, taking with them, many hostages. The Hoshun Maru is a vessel of 700 tons.—Reuter.

NANCHANG CAPTIVES.

Early Release Of Three Britons Expected.

AGREEMENT REPORTED.

Dairen, May 27.

Reports from Newchwang state that the three officers of the British steamer Nanchang, Messrs. Clifford Johnson, A. D. Blue and W. E. Hargrave, who were kidnapped on March 30, are expected to be freed, probably on Tuesday.

The Manchukuo authorities are reported to have reached an agreement with the pirates, but the terms are not announced.

The captives are reported to be en route to Newchwang at present. A Japanese-Manchukuo relief party encircled the bandits camp during the past few days, and threatened force if the Britons were not released immediately.—Reuter.

JAPANESE NOTE TO SOVIET

PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT OF DISPUTE DESIRED

Tokyo, May 27.

Japan has been, and still is, refraining from any action calculated to injure the Soviet's interests in the Chinese Eastern Railway, states a note despatched to Moscow in reply to the Russian communication of April 18.

The reply emphasises that Japan is interested in the peaceful settlement of the dispute, which should be reached by direct negotiations between the Soviet and Manchukuo, because of the Japanese-Manchukuo Protocol, and also because such an outcome is of paramount importance to peace in the Far East.—Reuter.

returning to the city, and resuming their studies, but one band, about a hundred, which reached Tsinan yesterday, refused to return, and demanded free transportation to Tsingtao.

The Railway Authorities were finally forced to give way and transport them to Tsingtao.—Reuter.

PIRATES ATTACK ANOTHER SHIP.

THREE PERSONS SLAIN IN STRUGGLE

Shanghai, May 28.

The name of another vessel, S. S. Taichow, was to-day added to the list of pirate victims which has swelled so rapidly of late.

The Taichow was pirated off Haimen, Chekiang, on May 24 and two guards and a woman passenger were killed. Three others were wounded and two more were carried off to be held for ransom. The band took money and valuables to the value of more than $30,000 from aboard the ship.—Reuter.

TACTICS OF SOVIET.

MAY FORCE REPRISALS BY MANCHUKUO GOVERNMENT

Harbin, May 28.

The Harbin Times, commenting upon the recent firing on Manchukuo shipping by Soviet troops, states that the incident is one of the most aggravating, as the Soviet troops fired from Manchukuo territory.

The newspaper declares that the Manchukuo has shipping rights on the boundary rivers, and owing to the Soviet fuellinging, and Soviet tactics delaying the settlement of the navigation question on the Amur River, the Manchukuo Government will adopt stern measures to safeguard its shipping.—Reuter.

to the rank of Division Commander. He wanted to take over the command of the regiment whose officers, however, resisted.

Then 200 plainclothesmen, coming from a certain foreign concession in Tientsin, according to the communique, appeared and gave assistance to General Ma. A battle ensued, the troops eventually disarming the gunmen.—Reuter.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

I wonder why some players continually allow high card tricks to wreck them.

Deal certain people four or five quick tricks and they immediately want to open with a forcing bid. Regardless of the responses given by partner, they are sure to reach a slam.

The next time you are dealt a number of high card tricks, proceed cautiously. Remember that every high card that you have in your hand is one less that your partner holds. You may not even be able to get into his hand to take a necessary finesse, or to establish your long suit.

As a matter of fact, hands containing six and seven high card tricks, without a long suit, will seldom produce a slam, for the reason that there are no high cards left to enter partner's hand with.

Take for example the following hand. A great many players would pick it up, count six and

♠ 9-4-3-2	♥ 9-8
♦ 7-6-5	♣ 9-10
♠ 6-4	♥ 6-3-2
♦ 9-8	♣ 8-7-5-2
♠ 8-4	♥ A-K-J
	♦ A-K-7-3
	♥ A-J-5
	♣ A-Q-10

one-half quick tricks and think, "Hurray, I have an opening two bid."

Well, I wouldn't even consider opening the hand with a forcing bid of two. Let's count up the tricks that you are apt to win—two aces, three hearts at the best, a diamond and two clubs if you are lucky—eight in all.

Therefore you must find a trick in partner's hand in order to go game at no trump. If you insist on opening with a forcing bid, at least don't bid any more than two no trump.

That is the weakest original two bid made in the constructive one over one system. It doesn't absolutely guarantee game in your own hand but it does state that your hands is so big that you think it impossible not to go game.

If you were to open this hand with two no trump in the South, North will bid three no trump. If he does not bid more than this, you certainly must pass on the next round.

By taking three finesses and finding the queen of hearts right, you are able to produce six no trump. West would open a spade which you would win with the king.

You have only one entry card in the dummy—the king of diamonds. Your best bet at this point is to try to create another entry. Therefore you should lead a small heart to dummy's jack. If West refuses to win, the trick will be won in dummy with the jack.

The jack of clubs will be led from dummy and if East refuses to cover the ten should be played. Another club should be led and the queen finessed. Then a diamond should be led to dummy's king. The jack of diamonds should now be finessed and all that you need do is grant your opponents a heart trick.

Just because six odd was made on this hand, don't try to find some reason why it should be bid. The hand is not even close to a sound slam bid, no matter how side has a suit with which to work.

In other words, slams can best be made when you have a long suit with which to work. Hands containing only four card suits are often difficult to make game with, even though they have an abundance of high card tricks.

LIU TO BE FREED

DISMISSED FROM POST BY
CHIANG KAI SHEKShanghai, May 28.
A Chinese despatch received in Peking from Nanchang, indicates the possibility of General Liu Chen-nien being released shortly. Liu Chen-nien, former commander of Chinese troops in Chefoo district, was arrested in Hanchow about a fortnight ago on the order of Marshal Chiang Kai-shek against whom it was alleged he had been plotting. General Liu is at present under surveillance at a villa on the shores of West Lake. Last week the Government issued a mandate dismissing him from his command for insubordination and ordering his punishment in accordance with the law.—Reuter Special.

London, April 25.
One of the most amazing meetings ever held in the Palace of Westminster ended in a "row" last night.

Mr. Edward Doran, the Conservative M.P. for Tottenham, had called a meeting in a Committee Room to hear a statement from Dr.
Thost, described as "Herr Hitler's right-hand man," on the present position in Germany with particular relation to the Jews.

In a statement issued before the meeting, Mr. Doran said that it was proposed to form a "Liberators' Group," strongly anti-Jewish, with a secret code for use in communicating with "outside bodies."

After Dr. Thost had spoken there was a storm of questions.
Mr. Doran began to speak again, and there were loud cries of "Boosh!" "Rubbish!" and "Humbbug!"

At this point Major Proctor, a Conservative member, jumped up and proposed a motion condemning the German Government for its attitude to the Jews. The motion was carried with acclamation, Mr. Doran protesting loudly all the time.

Following further uproar:
Mr. Doran (to Dr. Saltor): Your remarks are very crude and rude to me.

Dr. Saltor: Intentionally so.
Mr. Doran: I don't want to turn this into a bear garden. I know where the finances come from.
This is hooligan behaviour by certain members of the House of Commons. We will deal with them as they deal with them in Germany.

The meeting eventually broke up without passing any official resolution.

ALL THAT GLITTERS

EX-KAISER'S PRESENT OF CUFF-LINKS

Gilt cuff-links presented by the ex-Kaiser figured in a recent auction of souvenirs of the famous French actor, Coquelin. On coming to lot 38, described in the catalogue as "pair of cuff-links in gold presented to Coquelin by the ex-Kaiser, William," the auctioneer paused to explain that there was a mistake. The cuff-links were not gold but gilt. They had been sent to Coquelin by the Emperor after a performance at Lubek.

Coquelin naturally treasured this mark of Imperial esteem with pride, never suspecting that the gift was not what it seemed to be,
and it was only when the links were submitted to experts before the sale that they were discovered to be gilt.

After relating their history, the auctioneer opened the bidding at 1 franc. The parsimony of the Kaiser, however, appears to have increased the value of the links.
They were sold for 300 francs—a
have reached had they been gold.

WOMEN IN A TORY CLUB

ANOTHER BARRIER TO GO?

Women may soon be allowed to lunch in the Lower Grill Room of the Constitutional Club in Northumberland-avenue.

They are already allowed to take tea or dinner with members there, and at the fifteenth annual meeting of the club on May 11 the chairman will propose that the rules be altered to permit them to lunch there between 12.30 p.m. and 3 p.m.

Although during the last five years the number of teas served to women has dropped from 662 to 343 last year the number of dinners has increased from 2,131 to 3,421 in 1932.

OFFICERS: THIRD CLASS

NAVY'S TRAVELLING "ECONOMY"

EMBARRASSMENT FOR ALL RANKS

From May 1, officers of and below the rank and relative rank of Lieut.-Commander, R.N., and Major, R.M., are allowed only third-class travelling by railway while on duty within Great Britain and Northern Ireland, except when necessarily travelling in uniform.

This instruction was given in Admiralty Fleet Orders, which stated that it is in the interest of national economy and in pursuance of a general decision of the Government applying to all the Services of the Crown.

First-class accommodation will still be allowed for journeys in the Irish Free State, on cross-Channel steamers, and on boat trains in this country run in connexion with the boat on which the officer travels.

Discretionary powers are given to the Commanding Officer to grant a first-class voucher when it is desirable, but officers travelling on official business are instructed to take "the fullest possible advantage of any available cheap fares."

Criticism Expected.

In days when economy is in everybody's mind exception is unlikely to be taken by the Navy to some curtailment of first-class travel when off duty. The number of officers when travel first class at a reduced rate when not on duty is certainly very much less than formerly, if only on account of straitened means.

Pride or prejudice, therefore, will not be a cause of what is likely to be a widespread criticism of certain aspects of the new regulations when travelling on duty.

The minor discomfort of a long journey in a third-class carriage

PARK SONGS TO STOP

L.C.C. REFUSES TO HELP CONCERTS

Unless the Parks Committee of the L.C.C. reverses its decision the concert parties in the London parks will cease to give concerts there.

More than 300 concerts were given last summer in Battersea Park, Clapham Common, the Embankment Gardens and other places.

The cost of the concerts was borne by those who paid 3d. or 6d.
for a seat, and as these have been a dwindling number the London Concert Parties' Association has informed the L.C.C. that it cannot any longer carry on the concerts unless the L.C.C. shares the cost.

The L.C.C.'s reply is that "the Council does not see its way to make any alteration in the existing arrangements."

Band concerts are not affected.

will hardly disturb the equanimity of junior naval officers, but should the new regulation thus involve such officers in travel check by jowl with their men, drafts are travelling from one port to another, the regulations, if applicable in such cases, would certainly be resented by the men as much as by the officers.

Apert from the obvious question of discipline, men and officers alike do not want to have their freedom of speech and enjoyment turned into that stony silence which a natural and proper reserve in one another's presence would tend to produce.

Though the new regulations do not make it clear that under such circumstances the third-class rule would be relaxed, it may be taken for granted that, in practice, it will be.

BOLIVIA SAYS "NO" REJECTS LEAGUE'S PROPOSALS

(Special to "Telegraph")
La Paz, May 28.
Bolivia has rejected the League Council's proposal to end the conflict between Paraguay and Bolivia.
The Government has instructed the Bolivian delegate at Geneva to state that they cannot agree to an unconditional arbitration or to an immediate truce.—Reuter.

ALL QUIET ON THE PEKING FRONT

NO ARMISTICE PACT YET SIGNED

ARMY LEADERS IN CONFERENCE

(Special to "Telegraph")

Peking, May 29.
Chinese official circles report that the armistice negotiations between the Chinese and Japanese military leaders are proceeding smoothly.

It may, however, take some days before a formal agreement can be signed.
It is again emphasised by authoritative circles that so far the negotiations have been confined to the military situation only and reports that political issues are also being discussed are entirely groundless.

The object of the Chinese is to bring fighting to an end, but they are not committing themselves regarding Manchuria or Jehol.

FENG YU-HSIANG EXPLAINS

JAPANESE DESIGNS ON KALGAN

Peking, May 29.
General Feng Yu-hsiang has now condescended to explain his recent assumption of the leadership of the "anti-Japanese Allied Army."
Chinese sources report that he told a close friend he had raised the "anti-Japanese standard because the Japanese wanted to occupy Kalgan."
General Feng added that he had no desire to create difficulties for the Government.—Reuter.

RAIN

The Royal Observatory reports that weak anticyclonic areas are situated to the north-east of Hokkaido and over the Lower Yangtze Valley. Depressions are indicated to the north of Shanghai and to the east of the Loochoos; the latter is situated in a trough of low pressure extending from the Northern China Sea to the Bonins.

PRISONERS RELEASED TO MAKE ROOM FOR OTHERS

DEMAND EXCEEDS THE CELL SUPPLY

ACUTE CONGESTION PROBLEM

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

THE STARTLING FACT that over two hundred prisoners have been released from Hongkong's prisons in the past three weeks, long before, in many cases, their "time" has expired, we are able to reveal to-day.

Fresh prisoners have been arriving in such numbers recently that the prisons are taxed to overflowing. Many offenders are being set free in order to make room for newcomers.

The problem of gaol congestion, always serious, has become extremely acute within recent weeks. All prisons on the Island and the mainland near overcrowding, and accommodation has to be found for an increasing number of new arrivals.

The position is such that absorption has reached a point beyond which it cannot go, if the safety of the prisons and the health of the inmates is to be maintained.

There must be a limit to everything, and from all accounts the limit in this case was very recently reached, when the authorities of Victoria Gaol woke up one morning to find themselves in danger of being crowded out by their "guests!"

Following an exchange of views and correspondence between the various Government Departments concerned, the Gaol authorities had recourse to a measure without precedent in local history.

SEVENTY EXPELLED.
In one day, no fewer than 70 prisoners were expelled from the main Island Gaol!

THE LIMIT.
This is how it happened. When it was found that something had to be done, a roll call was made of short term prisoners, committed for petty offences or for any of the crimes putting them within the category of "revenue grade" prisoners.

No uniform system appears to have been applied to selection, but wherever it was found that the prisoner had served a "reasonable portion" of his sentence, and already decided upon at the time of commitment, he was picked out and included in the batch to be denied the further hospitality of his Majesty.

They were then marshalled together, served with deportation orders and sent off precincts of the Colony.

DEMAND INCREASING.
And still the demand for gaol accommodation continues unrelentingly, a large proportion being offenders convicted under the Opium Ordinance, consequent on an intensive campaign against opium dens.

The first large batch of convicts deported has since been followed by others, and one unofficial estimate places the total released before their time because their cells were required for others, at well over 200 within the past three weeks.

A visitor to any of our Police Courts these days will realise how our Magistrates are being overworked.

Each may have on a daily average, something like 50 cases to deal with, while by the exercise of superhuman efforts he has been known to dispose of double that number in one day!

SERIOUS CLASH IN MUKDEN

MONGOLIAN TROOPS IN REVOLT

Peking, May 29.
Delayed messages report serious disturbances in Mukden where over 1,000 newly-enlisted Mongolian soldiers threw the City into a state of confusion. Many residences were looted.
It is understood that the Mongolians, some of whom were former bandits, revolted as soon as the Manchukuo authorities supplied them with arms and ammunition. Fighting occurred between them and Manchukuo troops, with heavy casualties on both sides.
The Manchukuo authorities now have the situation in hand. The majority of the rebels were disarmed.

ALEPPO LANDING TRAGEDY

MISS MARGA VON ETZDORF

Aleppo, May 28.

Fraulein Marga von Etzdorf, the well-known German woman, was killed to-day in a crash landing at the Aleppo aerodrome.

She left Berlin unexpectedly yesterday morning for Australia, via Siam, and had made marvellous time. She appeared over the aerodrome here at 6.17 p.m. this evening, but when descending crashed owing apparently to an error of judgment.

The machine was badly smashed. The airwoman was extricated safely, but she died later.

ONLY 25 YEARS OLD.

Fraulein von Etzdorf, whose real name was Wolff, was only 25 years of age. She was born in Berlin in August 1907, her father being an army officer.

Her first flight was made in November, 1926, as a passenger with a ticket that had been presented to her.

She was so fascinated by it that a month later she entered a school of aviation at Staaken, to be trained.

By December, 1927, she had secured a certificate and soon got employment, as a second pilot on the Luftnase service between Berlin, Stuttgart and Basel, covering over 6,000 miles.

At Wurzburg in 1928 she took her diploma in trick flying. Two years later she was fourth in the first German women's "stunting" contest. She was also the first woman to qualify in the art of gliding, which she did at Spangenberg in Wurttemberg in the summer of 1929.

EARLY FLIGHTS.

After obtaining a first class pilot's certificate in 1930, she flew alone to Constantinople in her own 80 h.p. Junkers plane. Her next feat was to fly in November and December from Berlin to Spain, Africa and Tenerife, returning via Tunis. For this Prof. Junkers awarded her the Junkers gold brooch and a model of her aeroplane.

The International League of Airwomen elected her an honorary member, while the German Air League gave her its badge in gold.

On August 18, 1931, she began a solo flight in her Junkers machine "Kick in die Welt" from Berlin to Japan. She covered the 7,000 miles to Tokyo in twelve days, her route being Moscow, Omsk, Irkutsk, Mukden and Seoul, and her daily average about 633 miles. She returned via the southern route passing through Hongkong.—Reuter.

RODOSTO OUT OF THE DERBY

A MUCH-FANCIED CANDIDATE

London, May 28.
Rodosto, winner of the Two Thousand Guineas and a favourite for the Derby has been scratched and will not take part in the Epsom classic.

This decision was reached after a veterinary examination of the horse this afternoon.

The decision to scratch Rodosto from the Derby was taken by its owner, Princess de Faucigny Lucigne before her trainer's departure from Paris for England this morning.

"There is nothing else to do," she said, "for a Derby horse must not have the slightest thing wrong with him."

STRAINED MUSCLE.

"Rodosto is stiff and has strained a muscle. I don't know how badly."

"I shall have him brought back in a day or two and examined by a veterinary surgeon at Chantilly. It is a pity as it was the chance of a lifetime. Rodosto's pace would have given him a great advantage, and I am sure he could have stood the course."

SON OF EPINARD.

Rodosto is the son of the famous Epinard, and his magnificent running in the Two Thousand Guineas marked the horse down as the most likely winner of the Derby.

The horse was quoted favourite at 100 to 9 in the earliest of the Derby call-overs.

And the nominee run on Wednesday, he would have had a big chance of being the second French horse to win the Derby. Durbar II was the last French entry to win the classic as far back as 1914.—Reuter.

America and speculators were buyers and China a seller in the London silver market on Saturday.

The quotation was raised 3/8ths ready and forward, China coming in as a seller on the rise.

The rate of the dollar on demand was advanced to 1s. 4 1/2. The market is dead.

PRESIDENT WORRIED

SEQUEL TO MORGAN DISCLOSURES

NO VERIFICATION

(Special to "Telegraph")

New York, May 28.

Persistent but unverified rumours are in circulation suggesting that Mr. W. H. Woodin is desirous of resigning as a result of the Morgan enquiry disclosures.

Mr. Woodin is the Secretary of the Treasury and immediately upon the announcement that he was upon the list of bankers and directors who, at one time, were under a financial obligation to the J. P. Morgan Company, an attack was launched against him.

Senator Borah declared that the Secretary to the Treasury Department should be, like Caesar's wife, above suspicion.

It is understood that President Roosevelt, who is a close friend of Mr. Woodin, is attempting to dissuade him from tendering his resignation.—Reuter.

SHARE PROFITS.

Washington, May 28.

During further investigations into the affairs of Morgan's, J. P. Morgan reported gross profits of $818,281,903 from the sales of securities alone in the years 1927/31, in addition to unimputed millions secured in other big financial operations.—Reuter.

THE ACTION TAKEN by Herr Hitler is that of ordering an imposition of a fee of one thousand marks for the visas of all Germans visiting Austria.

MR. WOODIN'S PANTS

Denver, Colorado.

Mr. Woodin, U.S. Secretary of the Treasury has a pair of asbestos pants.

The former secretary, Mr. Ogden Mills, is said to have warned Mr. Woodin, when he took office that he was sitting in "the hottest seat in Washington," and advised him to wear asbestos pants. Days later they met. "You're right," said Mr. Woodin. "I need 'em."

An enthusiastic Democrat got busy. He had his mother make a pair, the size of shorts, and sent them to Mr. Woodin, with the hope that they were a perfect fit.—Reuter.

THE DRAGON BOAT FESTIVAL

CELEBRATED IN TRADITIONAL STYLE

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, May 29.

Despite the National Government's mandate ordering the abolition of the lunar calendar, the Chinese yesterday celebrated the Dragon Boat Festival with as much enthusiasm as in previous years.

All the native banks were closed for the day, while the usual dragon-boats races were rowed in the muddy Whangpoo.—Reuter.

HONGKONG CELEBRATION.

Hongkong also celebrated the Dragon Boat Festival in traditional manner. This year, in fact, the display was the biggest for some considerable time.

Some very exciting races were witnessed at Aberdeen where six boats churned their way through the waters in one event.

PRESIDENT ALSO PLANS TARIFF REVISION

Washington, May 28.
President Roosevelt has planned to deliver a war debt message to Congress before the adjournment which is scheduled for June 10.

Senator Robinson, the Democrat leader, announced after a talk at the White House, that the President expects to submit to Congress a resolution authorising him to revise tariff rates.—Reuter.

AUSTRO-GERMAN TENSION

MINISTER LEAVES BERLIN

TOURIST VISA SITUATION

Berlin, May 28.

Relations between Germany and Austria appear to be becoming strained.

The Austrian Minister to Berlin, Dr. Tauschitz, has left for Vienna, for the purpose, it is stated, of reporting to his government on the situation created by the Nazi measures for dissuading German tourists from visiting Austria.

The action taken by Herr Hitler is that of ordering an imposition of a fee of one thousand marks for the visas of all Germans visiting Austria.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

GLORIFYING YOURSELF.

By Alicia Hart

Bright flowers dot the way these days.

Bright lipstick takes the place of dull red ones.

The new make-up calls for clear, bright reds. They have youth in them, for the oldest face, provided they are just the right red for a given person.

Never pick a lipstick in the dark. Practically anything else may be given the benefit of the doubt. But not lipstick! The wrong one makes you look so very artificial. Leave that to the new hats—you'll have to look your very best to get away with some of them!

Do lipstick the inside of your lips, please. Nothing looks grimmer than a lady whose mouth in repose is perfect but when she opens her lips, there's a bluish-grey line just beyond the red that reveals her true self. Lick your lips about a bit, when you finish doing them, then smooth off the edges. That's the only way to make them look a bit natural.

Remember, if your upper lip is really too full, don't lipstick it quite to its upper edge. Go easy on the entire lipstick process. If your mouth is much too wide, then taper the lower and upper edges a speck and just smooth it with your finger to the edge, not using the lipstick itself on them.

There are new lipsticks that are waterproof and last the whole day through. Why not try them?

Smart—From Morn to Night

Smart, the day long, will you be if you wear this black silk ensemble with its smart printed coat lining and blouse and fresh, stiffened white pique gardenias.

The costume has a box jacket with cuffs of the flowered print attached. Remove the jacket at bedtime and you have a sleeveless frock, of a conventional flowerprinted crepe top, cut with a kerchief cross-over front treatment and a cape back. The little veiled hat is black, too.

CHIC, COMFORT MARCH SIDE BY SIDE

By Joan Savoy

Shoes this year go in for comfort, for style and for some new little ideas of their own about fabrics, colour, novelty ways of making themselves part of a costume and indispensable to its chic.

There are oxfords and pumps for practical and formal daytime wear. One-strapped sandals for those women who like a dressy touch to the feet. Tongue pumps, one-eyelot pumps (really a low-cut oxford), and hand-made oxfords come in all the new basic costume colours, with blue and grey predominating.

There undoubtedly will be more feet stepping along in grey this year than ever have been before. Plum and green are in the race, but not nearly so many of them. Deep, ruddy browns, soft leaf browns, in-between-beige-and-brown-browns—these are very smart with both blue and brown costumes, not to mention beige things.

For an all black costume or a black and white one, a novelty tongue-pump (No. 1 in the sketch) uses a plaid fabric with black kid to give a handsome bit of footgear. The purse is black, with little insets of the plaid, to make it the perfect accompaniment to the pumps.

For your blue suit, this polka dotted blue pump (2) is a boon. Its polka dots are ingenious—square eyelets in the blue kid reveal white underlying kid—giving the polka dotted effect. The tip and top of the pump is dotted, the vamp and the heel are blue.

Shoes that employ buttons and buttonholes for decoration are very new and intriguing. This one (3) is brown kid, piped beige, with beige buttons slipping through beige-outlined holes, in the vamp and the quarter. It is the newest kind of a strapped sandal, just a delicate, slender little strap to hold it fast to the ankle, very dressy.

Very new is the grey cloth shoe (4) made of a fine rep. with matching grey kid toe and quarter, all beautifully stitched with the new punch work. This oxford has a very comfortable leather heel, ties with grey grosgrain ribbon laces. With it there is a handsome grey kid purse with a twisted gold frame.

It's Time for "Facial Gardening."

Hard Scrubbing Will Rid Your Pores of Grime and Grit

By Alicia Hart

Spring blackheads should be routed out with the same persistent going-after that the good gardener gives weeds.

They are quite comparable to weeds, as a matter of fact. For, like weeds, get a few of them and let them go and your whole face looks bad before you know it.

Scrupulous scrubbing is the best way to start out after blackheads. Use fairly warm water, either a brush or a good knobby washrag, and medicated soap. Don't forget the medicated part—there are certain soaps specially prepared just for such emergencies as blackheads.

Instead of pinching your blackheads between fingers or prying them with a needle, try scrubbing the entire surface with your soap and water. You'll not get them out the first morning or night. But keep after it. They are just pores stopped with dirt and the little oily secretions that have collected in the enlarged pores. Free them from the dirt, then close them up by cold water or an antiseptic that has shrinking qualities and you'll find it is successful.

Some chemists now sell a gritty pore cream which is excellent if you have a persistent case of blackheads. This scours out the face but naturally it is hard on it, so use the softest, kindest cream you have afterward.

Once they are all out, start getting your skin in good order. Use stimulation creams and put them in. Also there are so-called detergents which close pores successfully, but they too need softening creams used afterward.

REMOVABLE BOWS

Be sure that bows on white shoes are removable so that you can take them off when you clean the shoes.

LOVE or MONEY?

BY H. W. CORLEY

CHAPTER XXI

The maid had brought Mona and Lottie up the uncarpeted stairs into the wide halls above. From the landing swung a huge window of shutters which, open now and made fast by means of a rope, looked out on a riot of blossoming hibiscus. Intense greens were dotted with crimson pink and yellow. A soft breeze stirred the trees, sending in showers of perfume.

The rooms on the second floor were high and, above the doors, were latticed to the ceiling. At either side of each door there were shutters spaced to let in air. The effect was one of marvellous coolness.

"You can't tell secrets here!" Lottie remarked, eyeing this arrangement. "Heavens, a whisperer would be all over the house. I hope nobody uses an alarm clock!"

From the windows of the bedroom they could glimpse the sea. It lay shimmering like a softly swaying bit of blue satin rimmed with silver. A necklace of palms fringed the beach and a white boat swung with the lazy tide.

The room contained few pieces of furniture. A huge bed draped with netting stood in the centre of the farther wall. There was a dresser, two easy chairs of rattan and a table. Mona noted with satisfaction that the room was lighted with electricity and that the bed had a reading lamp attached to its head.

"But there's no bath!" Lottie cried, pointing to a wash stand. Josie had hung towels about and disappeared with two huge pitchers.

Lottie's room, connecting by door and by outer balcony, was similar to Mona's.

A knock on the door announced the arrival of the baggage and Florence entered, dragging suitcases and hat boxes after her. The boys, she explained, had brought it to the door but it seemed best not to allow them to disturb Madame.

Josie appeared almost immediately carrying pitchers of hot water. Mona and Lottie bathed, opening suitcases in search of pajamas, and finally crept beneath the netting for a rest. They were asleep instantly.

Several hours later Mona awoke

suddenly. Lottie, a veritable sea nymph in green, was bending over her.

"I've been out to bathe—not in the sea, just the pool," Lottie announced. "Josie told me about it. The boys have a sort of sunken bath behind the house. It's as large as a baby swimming pool, with showers rigged up and everything. It's great!"

Half an hour later, wearing cool chiffon and dainty shoes, Mona descended the stairs. Lottie had reached the terrace just before her and sat at a small table, the silver service in front of her, quizzing the boys about their ten.

Josie, the maid, arrived with tinkling ice. Mona supposed that this must have been brought from a distant port at great expense until Lottie explained that the kitchen was outfitted with an electric refrigerator. She had made a second tour of investigation and was prepared to answer questions.

Barry and Steve, in fresh linens and sleek of hair, rose as Mona approached. It was cool on the terrace. The glare of the sunlight was softened and a gentle breeze played. "Tea, Mona," Lottie inquired. She was perfectly at home here.

"Hot or cold?"

"Cold," Mona decided.

"I don't see how anyone can drink hot tea here," observed Lottie. "There is lemon or lime. Which do you prefer?"

"Let me arrange her place, Lottie," Barry said. He put down a plate of tiny cakes and took possession of the tea table. "I know what Mona likes."

It was a small courtesy yet it made Mona's heart leap as she watched. The long months seemed suddenly to have faded. She had never—really—been married to Barry's uncle. Here they were—she and Lottie, Barry and Steve—on an outing just as they had been so often before.

Things would be all right, she was sure. Barry would forgive her for everything. Some time very soon she could explain all that had happened. Now she would relax and enjoy herself.

Her dream was broken abruptly. Barry held the tumbler decked with mint out to the maid and, indicating Mona, said, "Give this to Mrs. Townsend."

Mrs. Townsend! He might have said nothing, leaving it to the maid's deduction whom the glass was intended for, or he might have handed her the glass himself.

Mrs. Townsend! That name which might have been so sweet was a reproach.

They heard a pounding on the carpeted stairs, a sudden clatter on the verandah, and Bud, freshly dressed and glowing after his recent swim, joined them.

"Tea?" Lottie asked. "Did you have a good swim, Bud?"

"No tea, thanks. Yes, I had a fine swim." To Barry he said, "I'm going down to the plane. Is that o. k.?"

Barry nodded and Bud flung himself into the rickety automobile and started off.

He called back, "Bobby Jones won't like you if we keep landing on the fairway, Barry! How's the airport coming?"

"Not very well. Maybe I'll get you to handle it," Barry answered amiably.

"Any time you say," called Bud. "He drives well, doesn't he?"

Instead Barry, too, rose from his chair. "Don't take Lottie away," he called. "I promised the girls we'd take them for a drive. We ought to be starting or it will be too late. The roadster is in order, isn't it?"

"Never better!" Steve agreed. Capping his hands together and raising them to his mouth, he shouted, "Oh, boy! Bring around the roadster!"

THEATRE COLLAPSE.

SHANGHAI MISHAP CAUSE OF 30 CASUALTIES

Shanghai, May 28.

More than 30 casualties were caused when a Chinese theatre in Chapei collapsed this afternoon while a performance was in full swing.

Fire broke out, increasing the panic, among the audience which madly stamped for safety.—Reuters.

Mona nodded in agreement. "It was awfully good of you," she said softly. "I don't believe I've ever thanked you—"

"Oh, we've had our thanks all right. Bud himself, looking as he does to-day, is thanks enough."

There was coolness in Barry's tone and Mona felt it. She was silent for some time.

Then after a little she said, "Does he handle any of the selling for you?"

Barry nodded again. "He does and he's clever at it, too. There's a man named Horton—"

How could Barry know about that? Had he seen Bud? Then she understood that of course he had while she was sleeping.

"There's a man named Horton who's a tough customer. He gave us a good price for uncut diamonds because Bud—"

"Why don't you let Bud tell her that, boy?" suggested Steve casually. He turned to Mona. "Barry is always bragging about Bud. I tell him the boy's head will be turned."

The scent of the honeysuckle came nearer and nearer. They could hear the sea spilling and crashing along the beach. Lottie, rising, beckoned Steve to join her at the edge of the terrace.

Mona was alone with Barry at last. What was he going to say? How would he begin? With reproaches? With a demand for explanations?

Instead Barry, too, rose from his chair. "Don't take Lottie away," he called. "I promised the girls we'd take them for a drive. We ought to be starting or it will be too late. The roadster is in order, isn't it?"

"Never better!" Steve agreed. Capping his hands together and raising them to his mouth, he shouted, "Oh, boy! Bring around the roadster!"

MOTOR VESSEL LAUNCHED.PULUPUNDAN TAKES THE WATER LOCALLY

The steel twin screw passenger and cargo motorship Pulupundan was launched yesterday at the shipyard of the South China Motorship Building and Repairing Works, Ltd. at To Kwa Wan, Kowloon.

She has been built to the order of the De La Rama Steamship Co. Hilo, and is intended for service between Hilo and Pulupundan, in the Philippines.

The customary bottle of champagne was broken over the bows by Mrs. Pirovano, daughter of the owner, who performed the christening ceremony. The vessel glided smoothly down the well-creased blocks, a pleasing sight with a chapter of greenery encircling her white superstructure and a string of crackers spluttering from her bows. A Filipino band played the Philippines National Anthem.

Afterwards the assembled directors, shipyard officials, owners' representatives and a large number of guests adjourned to a near-by shed for refreshments.

Present at the launching were Messrs. P. M. Hodgson (Chairman), J. M. Noronha, T. A. Martin, and Ho Kwong (Directors of the South China Motorship Building and Repairing Works, Ltd.), Captain G. Brant (General Manager) and Mr. J. A. Gutierrez (Secretary), Mr. and Mrs. Pirovano, Mr. L. R. Idefonso, and others.

Chairman's Speech.

Prior to the launching, Mr. P. M. Hodgson, as chairman of the shipyard company, addressed the assemblage. He said:

Ladies and gentlemen.—We are gathered here this morning to witness the launching and christening of this Steel Twin Screw passenger and cargo motor vessel, and it is with great pleasure that as Chairman of the South China Motorship Building and Repairing Works Ltd., the builders of the vessel, I have the privilege of saying a few words.

The order for this motor vessel was placed with our Company by the De La Rama Steamship Co. in Hilo last year, such vessel being required for use in the inter-island trade in the Philippines and particularly the trade between Hilo and Pulupundan.

The vessel before you is 150 ft. in length with a gross tonnage of just under 250 tons and fitted with 2 Deutz Full Diesel Engines of 450 H.P.

On behalf of the Company, I would like to thank you all for being present at the launching of this vessel, and it is particularly satisfactory to our Company to note that we have here with us as our guests Mr. and Mrs. Pirovano, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. De La Rama, and to inform you that Mrs. Pirovano has very kindly consented to christen the vessel of her father's Company.

In asking Mrs. Pirovano to christen this vessel by the name of Pulupundan, we trust that this ship will be satisfactory in every way and stand up against all storms, and will be appreciated and liked by her passengers and owners and will be profitable and entirely fulfill the wishes of the De La Rama Steamship Co.

I understand that it is the intention of Mr. De La Rama to honour our shipyard with an order for his shipbuilding Company. I now ask Mrs. Pirovano to perform the christening ceremony.

Description of Ship.

The dimensions of the vessel are:—150 feet overall length, 27 feet moulded beam, 11 feet moulded depth with a mean load draught of 8 feet 6 inches. The gross tonnage just being under 250 tons.

The twin screw propelling machinery is located amidships and consists of two Deutz 4 cycle 6 cylinder Diesels each capable of developing 450 H.P. at 375 Revolutions per minute which should give the vessel a speed of 13½ to 14 knots.

There are two cargo holds, the forward one being served by a 3-ton electric winch with cargo derrick and gear suitable for 4 ton lifts.

For handling the anchors an electric windlass is provided and fitted forward which may be hand operated when necessary.

One 5 K.W. Volts Deutz Diesel driven Lighting Set and one 26 K.W. 220 Volts Deutz Diesel driven Generator Compressor Set are installed in the Engine Room.

The pumps are electrically driven and consist of a small Elmo Fuel Oil transfer pump, a General Service Pump, a Circulating Pump and an

POLICE RESERVIST
PRAISEDGETTING MOST OF THE POLICE CASES

"Some rather good work is being done by the Police Reserve and the District Watchmen. They seem to be getting most of the Police cases," said Sub-Inspector Kirby in the Central Police Court this morning when Mr. Wynne-Jones commended Mr. Kwok Hing-chun, of the Police Reserve, for his smart arrest of a Chinese youth who attempted to steal a gold neck chain from Fung Wun-hing, a waitress.

The incident occurred in Wing Kat Street, on Saturday afternoon. Accused pleaded he had nothing to eat and the magistrate ordered him to receive eight strokes of the cane.

The vessel will shortly undergo trials and afterwards proceed to Hilo to take up service, and delivery will be effected well over one month before the contracted time.

LANE, CRAWFORD'S
SPORTS GOODS.FOUND IN BOX SUPPOSED TO BE EMPTY

On the ground that they had no guilty knowledge that the goods were in the box, Mr. Wynne-Jones, at the Central Magistracy on Saturday, discharged two Chinese, Li Chung and Ho Ching, charged with the larceny of sporting gear to the value of about $250 from Lane Crawford's, on Friday.

The goods comprised two tennis presses, two badminton presses, two squash racket presses, two spring belts, 24 jade tapes, ten golf balls, one tennis racket frame, seven Correcta grips, and various other sporting gear. The complainant was Mr. E. J. Alaisio.

Sub-Inspector Bright, prosecuting, said that about 3 p.m. on Friday the two defendants were called in to the sports department to buy empty boxes. A Chinese salesman sold them three boxes, and went away. The defendants took the boxes out, but when they got to the main door, the Indian watchman arrested them and searched the boxes, finding the goods in one of them. The boxes had just been brought back from the Empire Fair and had been unpacked, and apparently these goods had been left in one of them. They were all covered with paper.

Mr. Wynne-Jones.—How would they know that they were stealing?

Sub-Inspector Bright.—They knew perfectly well that the boxes were not empty. The first defendant was carrying one box, and the second two.

Mr. Wynne-Jones.—How are you going to suggest that the first defendant actually knew the goods were there. The only person to know that would be the second defendant, who could tell by the weight of the box.—The salesman is responsible for the boxes being cleared of the goods, but apparently he did not do so in this case.

The defendants both pleaded guilty to the charge of larceny, but on Mr. Wynne-Jones asking them whether they knew what they were pleading to, both said they had been called in to buy the boxes. Mr. Wynne-Jones then decided to hear evidence.

Salesman's Evidence. Sui So-ching, salesman, said that at 2.30 p.m. on Friday he sent for the second defendant to buy empty boxes. Defendant came with the first defendant, and bought three boxes, the first defendant paying for them. Witness did not examine the boxes, because after they had been brought back from the Fair they had been opened and the goods taken out. The boxes put aside for sale.

Later first defendant came up and informed him that the Indian watchman at the door had found some goods in the boxes. The boxes were covered with wrapping paper. He did not know how these goods happened to be in the boxes. First defendant told him he did not know there was anything inside the boxes. The boxes had no wooden lids on them.

An Indian watchman gave evidence of having stopped the defendants and search the boxes, finding the goods in one of them.

S. I. Bright.—In this case, the defendants went down by the main stairway, when they should

TROUBLE AHEAD.

Controversial Topics
At Geneva.

SECRETARIAT'S WOES.

Geneva, May 28.

The General Commission of the Disarmament Conference tomorrow will deal with the security of nations and will reach one of the most controversial subjects on its agenda the plan, namely, Article Six, dealing with mutual assistance pacts. The attitude of Germany and Italy during the discussion in Committee offers little hope of an easy solution of this question.

The discussion is expected to reveal the widest divergences among the views of European groupings.

May Adjourn.

A local newspaper publishes the rumour of the possibility of the Economic Conference transferring to Geneva after a fortnight in London, owing to the difficulty of the secretariat in coping with two big conferences simultaneously and in the event of the Disarmament Conference not adjourning before June 10.

Mr. Davis, the American delegate, is strongly pressing for no more than a fortnight's interruption and League quarters are arguing in favour of simultaneous meetings. Geneva and other quarters favour adjournment of the Disarmament Conference until Autumn.—Reuter.

Remarking that the defendants had no guilty knowledge of the contents, Mr. Wynne-Jones discharged them. The goods were ordered to be returned to Lane, Crawford's.

DANCING DISPLAY AT
KING'S THEATRE.PUPILS OF MISS V. CAPELL TO PERFORM

A splendid dress rehearsal yesterday morning augurs well for the success of the tenth annual dancing display by the pupils of Miss Violet Capell, to be given at the King's Theatre next Wednesday, commencing at 5.15 p.m. sharp. The display is under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Peel, and part of the proceeds will be distributed among local charities and to the London Hospital.

Nearly seventy pupils, from the more experienced to the tiniest tot, are participating, and in the finale an ensemble, entitled "In Black and White," which is indeed effective, the entire number appear. In this Miss Violet Capell herself appears and performs a graceful dance with her sister, Miss Phyllis Capell.

Ensembles, duets, pas-seuls and jazz are well catered for, and the great care that has been expended in their arrangement is rewarded by a well balanced programme, which will be presented in two parts. Of special merit is the trio "Waltz" danced by Stella Ho, Audrey Ho and Helen Ho, in the second half of the entertainment.

Owing to indisposition, Miss Rachael Wong, one of Miss Capell's best pupils, was unable to dance her solo, "Sun", which is the eighth number on the programme, at the rehearsal.

It is to be noted that only pupils doing solos or duets will be handed flowers on the stage, on Wednesday. Flowers, etc., received for other pupils will be handed to them behind the stage at the conclusion of the performance. This procedure has been found necessary owing to the short time at their disposal, as the display will have to finish in time for the 7.15 p.m. cinema show.

THE PIRACY OF THE PROMINENT

The piracy of the Prominent and her dramatic encounter with an armed police launch in Mira Bay furnishes a vivid story, recalling the Irene affair. The same pregnant situation, with Tragedy and Disaster lurking perilously near, presented itself to Sergeants Stewart and Taylor, the only European police officers on the launch, as it did to the submarine commander in the earlier episode. A pitch black night, the low beat of engines sounding through the stillness, a steamer creeping into the bay with all lights doused, suspicion rapidly giving way to certainty. The difference lay in the line of conduct pursued, and we think it can be said, without the slightest hesitation, that the highest credit reflects on the two police officers concerned. It would, indeed, be difficult to commend them too highly. The lesson to be derived from the affair is contained in the impressive demonstration that piracy cannot be prevented by patrols. Strategically the advantage lies wholly in the hands of the pirates. Both the ship's officers and the ship itself are at their not very tender mercy and it would be unwarrantable to expect those in control of patrol vessels to take the hazard, however much they may be in duty bound to employ every means at their disposal to effect a capture. Playing chuck-farthing with the lives of men cannot be justified even if the withholding of force permits the escape of the pirates. Nevertheless, in the tension of the moment, the excitement of the chase, the knowledge that actions must later be explained to superiors who may adopt the role of armchair critics, a cool self-possession and presence of mind are essential to a correct handling of events as they develop. And these qualities were exercised in full measure enabling the affair to be terminated in the way most happy in the circumstances. The police were outwitted by a ruthlessness to which they had no counter unless they were prepared to sacrifice innocent lives. There is little doubt that No. 4 Police Launch could have riddled the boats in which the pirates were making their escape, but the searchlight revealed two of the ship's officers deliberately exposed to any fire which might have been directed. Sergeant Stewart chose the only alternative, landing an armed party as rapidly as possible, an effort which was unfortunately fruitless. This does not mean, however, that the encounter of the police patrol with the pirated steamer was entirely without reward. When the Prominent was steaming into Mira Bay the pirates had already assembled their intended loot and had selected the comradore and five passengers for kidnapping. The embarrassing close attentions of the police launch compelled the gang to abandon all but easily portable valuables and the money haul. That was something worth while. Moreover, the situation was not without its dangers for the men on the launch. The pirates did not capitulate to the need for a hurried exit without a struggle. They made several attempts to ram the launch and clearly, the affair was not a picnic for anyone concerned. It serves, however, to show that the only sound anti-piracy measures are those designed to prevent the capture of ships.

BETTER LYRICS, PLEASE

If, as is often said, the man who writes a nation's songs wields more power than he who makes its laws, the United States has something like a half-share in ruling the British Empire. For at least 50 per cent of the songs which, according to gramophone sales, have been the most popular in Britain during the last ten years are composed in America. Both Britain and America, however, are to be congratulated rather on the quantity than on the quality of their songs, and it is refreshing to note that at last public taste is beginning to wake up to this fact, for recently the British Broadcasting Corporation has received many complaints of the feebleness of the lyrics that are nightly sent over the air. The trouble with many lyrics is one of taste rather than morals. The words of popular songs are not offensive so much as vapid and mawkish. They indicate, not ethical perversity, but a complete vacuity of the intellect. But one should not condemn the lyricist without giving sympathetic attention to his difficulties. The chief of these is rhyme. It is a regrettable fact that, in the whole wealth of the English language, which contains anything from 200,000 to half a million words, the only rhymes to what is almost inevitably the most popular expression in the lyric writer's vocabulary are "above," "dove," "glove" and "shove," and of these the last is almost useless for musical purposes. Further, the lyric writer has to fit his words into a tune, and this is by no means so easy a matter as it might seem. Still, it is possible to write better lyrics than those that accompany the most widely hummed and whistled songs of the day. It has been done. Some of the most delightful verses in the English language were written to be sung: "There is a lady sweet and kind," "The fields breathe sweet, the daisies kiss our feet," "Drink to me only with thine eyes." These lyrics set a standard which the song writers of to-day might well try to emulate. If the answer is made that the public does not want songs of this type, that can easily be disposed of. What song of this decade, judged by a ten-year standard, has been as widely sung on concert platforms, by errand boys in the street, in schoolrooms, and on the radio as the last of the examples chosen above?

TEN DAYS IN GERMANY

Hamburg, one of Europe's greatest seaports, already partially paralyzed by world trade conditions, suffers anew from the Hitlerists' anti-Jew campaign.

HAMBURG DEPRESSION STRICKEN

By MILTON BRONNER

Hamburg, a city of a million people, and one of the greatest seaports of the world, seems stricken as though by a plague by the business depression. It depends for its existence upon export and import trade. This business had fallen low enough, and then came the finishing touch—the Hitler anti-Jew campaign.

The great shipping lines of Hamburg and Bremen frankly admit wholesale cancellations of both passenger and freight business. The outlook for the future is not promising. They know that in the light of what is now Germany's national policy, Jews will quietly start patronizing British, American and French rivals of the German steamship lines.

At this time of year the hotels of Hamburg and Bremen are usually filled with American travellers on various religious pilgrimages. My observation of a few days ago, however, was that the hotels were virtually empty.

Before the days of Hitler, Hamburg was ruled by the Socialists. Bloody and often fatal encounters between Nazis and Communists were almost daily occurrences over a period of months. Now, however, all is quiet. Nazi troops are thick throughout the city. They are prominent even at the railway stations. Many of their Communist enemies are in jail. There was little good humour displayed in carrying out the one-day boycott in Hamburg. Armed Nazi troops blocked the doorway to every Jewish business or professional establishment. Prospective customers were warned away. If they persisted in their desire to enter a store or office, their picture was taken to be filed away for future reference. When they emerged they were greeted with angry shouts from the sidewalks. On Sunday, following the boycott, a great procession of automobiles swept through the streets of Hamburg, bearing banners urging good Germans to continue to abstain from buying from Jews.

I understand from reliable sources that prominent German Christians and big business bodies of Hamburg, greatly alarmed at the strong possibility of business repercussions, protested as vigorously as they dared against eliminating Jews from various business organizations. The protests, however, brought no response.

What is to happen to the big steamship companies and the shipping business? The logical conclusion is that the companies will be thoroughly Hitlerized. The general belief in shipping circles is that the Nazis will put some of their own men on the directorates of the Hamburg and Bremen lines. There then will be developed something akin to a big shipping trust, similar to Luft Hansa, the great air passenger and freight trust, and the steamship lines will be given increased financial support by the government. Further efforts will be made to help German foreign trade by continuing the policy of fixing lower railway freight charges for export goods than for goods carried for internal consumption.

"Hey, mother! I caught sis at my neckties again."

The Very Idea!

WAS IT FAIR?

By Eddie Kelly, Empire Builder.
WHAT a Fair! What a Display! What an Exhibition!

But perhaps you saw if for yourself? The only person we know of who didn't go across to the Peninsula last week was a woman living on the Peak.

She couldn't go because she couldn't get a new hat until she went down into the city, and she couldn't go down into the city until she got a new hat. Which was a lucky break for her husband.

All the social headlights were there. Mrs. Spittoon looked positively charming in a dark frock of beige, or bilge, or whatever you call it, with her bonny baby strapped on her back.

We only had time to converse with Mrs. Sam Pan for a few minutes, but we gathered that she enjoyed the Fair. Her only complaint was about the Management of the Peninsula taking up the carpets.

"These concrete floors are very tiring on bare feet," Mrs. Pan said to us smilingly, waggling her toes.

Mr. and Mrs. Koo Lee were holding an animated discussion on synchro-mesh and free-squealing in the latest model motor-cars as we passed them in the automobile section.

Mr. Koo Lee showed a marked interest in the Baby models, but finally decided that it would be judicious not to buy a car at all. "What's a Baby in our life," he exclaimed, with a merry laugh.

"There's a million of them," he continued, gathering up his family and departing for the radio section. Only dissatisfied person we saw was Pete. Pete had the idea that there were a lot of people at the Fair who shouldn't have been there.

POTTED FILMS.

Enter the hero; villain too: The country bumpkin, straw askew: The frate father, mother proud; And Ol' Man River in the crowd. (Why this should be, I cannot say. So typical of U.S.A.)

The hero gets his full six years. Flancco sobs—dries canal tears. The villain gloats. The IS the word.

Forget, he must, that Alce Hurd is watching him with sleuth-like air. A Scotland Yard man is so rare in stories and on films, I mean—That you will see how Al is keen. To scrow the villain by the neck. And save the homestead from the wreck.

The father bows a weary head: The mother home by daughter led. The while the villain seeks the inn: To miss that part will be a sin.

For there the spoil is handed over. A close-up through the open door. Just shows the villain's sneering lips. And Pampa Pete with hands on hips.

But Al has "guessed" where they will go. And is already lying low Behind the secret hole through which He sees those villains now are rich—More rich than even he had thought.

Ill-gotten gains so cheaply bought. Flick! Once again the scene is changed.

One sees the hero, now deranged. A far-off look in either eye. And, strange to say, he wears a tie. (Why this should be, I cannot say. So typical of U.S.A.)

While both hands grip the iron bars. Flick! his fiancée seeks the stars.

For help and strength to Alce H., That he may queer the villain's pitch.

And bring her lover safely back. Flick! Here an inset of the shack. Flick! Pampa Pete gets on his horse.

You know? A stirring leap, of course; A sudden twist, a cloud of dust. And Pete is "off." The villain must Return to where our Al is hid.

In order that he may get rid Of all the papers of the farm. How Al is pleased! The scene is warm!

The secret panel opens wide: The papers then are thrust inside. The villain rubs his hands with glee. "Now for the girl herself," quoth he.

Al gets the papers; reads them through. Wall! This is just the Devil's brew.

His sturdy mustang leaps along. Inset of bell—ding, dong, ding-dong. (Why this should be, I cannot say. So typical of U.S.A.)

But churches, steeples, all seem good To studios in Hollywood.)

.... An inset of the villain here. Upon his face an awful leer. The girl with twitching hands to show Anticipation of a blow Which never falls. FOR HERE IS AL!

The roaring Limited draws in. Out steps the hero looking thin; A far-off look in either eye. And, strange to say, he wears NO tie.

DANZIG ELECTIONS

AN INDEPENDENT MAJORITY

Danzig, May 29.
The Danzig elections, although carried through in an atmosphere of considerable excitement passed off without serious disturbances.

There is little doubt that the polling will result in a big triumph for the Nazis. In fact, a decisive victory for the Hitlerites is confidently expected.

It is thought that they will gain about 49 per cent. of the whole electorate.

Out of 361 districts three hundred and fifty have already been counted, giving 202,737 votes, of which the Nazis secured 101,577. The Social Democrats rank second with 36,000.

BIG GAINS.

Later.
It is certain that the Nazis have captured at least 35 of the 72 seats in the Danzig "Parliament," their votes totalling 107,619 from a total of 215,132, which trebles their 1930 figures.

The Social Democrats secured 38,210 votes, the Centrists 31,504 votes, the Communists 14,800, the Black White and Red Fronts, 13,601.

CAMERA THEFT SEQUEL

TWO MEN APPEAR IN COURT

The theft of silverware and a camera from No. 63, Mt. Parish on May 12, for which one man has already been sentenced to prison, had a sequel before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, when Choi Hung, a shop fook, was charged with larceny, and alternatively with receiving stolen goods, with another man, Cheuk Wing.

The property consisted of several articles of silver ware and a camera to the total value of $79. The complainant was Mr. W. L. Walker, of the P. W. D.

The first defendant denied the first charge, but admitted the second, while the second defendant said he had bought the camera from the first accused.

Detective Sergeant O'Donovan said that the article were stolen on May 12 in broad daylight, and one man had already been gaoled for the theft. The first defendant in this case, when arrested, said he knew something about the larceny. He took the police to the hillside near Wanchai, to recover the silverware, but nothing was found. He said that his confederate must have taken the stuff away. Later on the second defendant came to the police station with the camera. The police were not pressing the charge against the second defendant.

Mr. Schofield discharged the second accused, and fined first defendant $100 or three months hard labour.

BIG OPIUM HAUL ALLEGED

THREE MEN CHARGED WITH IMPORTING

Nearly 10,000 taels of raw opium is said to be involved in a case mentioned before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning.

The defendants were Chang Ning, 55, coxswain, Chan Ming, 45, engineer, Tsang Chi-ting, 36, comprador, and Yip Tam-po, 33, tallyman, who were all charged with importing opium on board the s.s. Kwong I.

Chief Preventive Officer Buller appeared for the prosecution and stated that the Monopoly Analyst's report was not yet ready, and he would ask for a 24 hours' remand. All the consignment had not been examined, and it is possible that other charges may be preferred. Mr. Hin-shing Lo appeared for the defence, and the hearing was fixed for to-morrow at noon.

RURALISING THE THEATRES

COMPANIES SENT ON TOUR

Moscow.
If peasants cannot come to the theatre, the theatre must go to the peasants.
And when the theatre has been taken to the peasants it should put before them plays dramatising such vital things in their lives as the Spring sowing campaign.

This is the reasoning behind an extensive movement for touring rural theatres now in progress in Soviet Russia, according to the Tass Agency.

A large number of special companies have been formed to tour from farm to farm in the farthest corners of the U.S.S.R. to perform the best Soviet plays.

The "Art Institutions" of each separate Soviet Republic are also making preparations for regular theatrical performances in rural districts.

The Ukrain for example, has organised for this purpose 127 theatrical companies and 36 "Movie Brigades". The little Moldavian Republic has five big theatrical companies touring through its villages. In Kharkov, the biggest theatres have prepared a number of special plays, dedicated to the spring sowing campaign, which they will perform in Ukrainian villages, while the actors in far distant Uzbekistan are doing active work in the same direction.

Thirty theatres have been attached to the main cotton growing districts and will tour round the state farms and collective farms where they will perform. The Uzbekistan Cinema Trust has also sent 100 travelling cinemas and a number of "photographers' brigades" to various districts for the sowing season.—Reuter.

DISMISSAL OF A WATCHMAN

WAGES CLAIM THIS MORNING

A claim for wages by an Indian watchman was made at the Supreme Court this morning before the Pusa Judge, Mr. Justice Lindsell, the plaintiff being Sajjan Singh, of Heard Street, who was represented by Mr. F. C. E. Rendall, (Messrs. Russ and Co.) and the defendants Bhagat Singh Bugga and Co., of 19, Connaught Road Central.

Plaintiff stated that he was employed by defendants at a monthly wage of $35 and was wrongfully dismissed on May 4th. He had received no wages for March and April and therefore claimed $140 and costs.

His Lordship gave judgment in the sum of $73.52, being wages for March and April and four days in May. He found that plaintiff was dismissed on reasonable grounds and dismissed the claim for one month's wages in lieu of notice.

BONHAM STRAND PROPERTY

FORGERY ALLEGED IN CIVIL SUIT

"VILLAINS OF THE PIECE"

An allegation that the assignment of No. 73, Bonham Strand West was a forgery was made by Mr. H. G. Sheldon, during the hearing of a case which opened at the Supreme Court this morning before the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Wood, in which Li Tse-shi, administratrix with the will annexed, of the estate of Li Woon-nam, her late husband, seeks to recover the property from Pong Tsoi-ching of Shatin.

Appearing for the applicant are Mr. H. G. Sheldon and Mr. Leo D'Almada e Castro, jr., instructed by Messrs. Lo and Lo, and for the defendant are Mr. Eldon Potter, K. C., and Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K. C., instructed by Messrs. Hastings and Co.

The hearing is expected to last a week.

Opening the case, Mr. Sheldon stated that the property was purchased on February 19, 1917 by a person named Ng Yu-hon and resold to Li Woon-nam on October 11, 1924. The death of Li Woon-nam occurred on April 19 in the following year and all deeds were handed to his widow, plaintiff in the present action, together with the will of deceased. Those deeds she kept in a safe in her house at Toi Shan city, and as she was unable to read or write did not know to what they referred.

ADOPTED SON.

A prominent figure in the case, said Mr. Sheldon, was plaintiff's adopted son, Li Kai-loi. On March 24, 1930, the property was purported to have been assigned by Li Woon-nam to Li Kai-loi, the original document for which had apparently been lost. A draft copy had been obtained from solicitors concerned. That assignment, Mr. Sheldon alleged to be a forgery as Li Woon-nam at the time had been dead some five years, the conjecture being that Li Kai-loi obtained some person to impersonate his father and purport thereby to put through the assignment.

On April 13, 1931 Li Kai-loi swore a statutory declaration to the effect that he had purchased the property, obtained all the title deeds from the solicitors and gone to Toi Shan taking them with him. He stated that at the beginning of April of that year he was returning to Hongkong and the suitcase in which he was carrying the deeds was lost.

On the same day Li Kai-loi gave power of attorney to his nephew, Li Hip-loi, the son of a man named Li Cheuk-nam, brother of the deceased.

"These two men, Li Kai-loi and Li Hip-loi are the villains of the piece and it is these two who have defrauded plaintiff and defendant in this action," said Mr. Sheldon.

On April 20, 1931, the property was mortgaged by Li Kai-loi to a person named Yau Pun, which mortgage was put through by Li Hip-loi as attorney for Li Kai-loi. On May 1, the same year, a second mortgage was put on the property and on July 2, the property was sold by public auction by order of the mortgagee under the power of sale contained in the deed for $77,000, the purchaser believing the mortgagee to be the defendant.

At to-morrow's meeting of the H. K. Rotary Club, the speaker will be Mr. C. M. Manners, his subject being "Transportation."

The M.V. "Silvercypress" from New York, arriving from Shanghai 28th instant, sailing and is expected here on 30th instant at noon.

While driving a bicycle in Hennessy Road yesterday, Yiu Kwong was injured through a collision with a lorry. He suffered minor injuries.

For the theft of three catfish of pork from a lorry a Shanghai Chinese was sent to prison for three weeks by Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning.

A Chinese woman who attempted to evade duty on a small quantity of wine which she concealed in two chocolate tins, was fined $4 or five days' gaol by Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning.

A Chinese woman, who admitted the theft of a pair of slippers from an amah working at 24, Gough Street, was bound over by Mr. Wynne-Jones in Court this morning. Her fare to Canton is to be defrayed from the Poor Box.

After pawning two worthless bangles for $7 each by purporting that they were gold, a young man named Lung Wan made a third attempt, which proved his undoing. Sergeant Butcher said defendant tried the trick a second time on the same pawnbroker. Defendant was sentenced to 12 weeks' altogether.

WHAT THE 1933 CHILD READS

GIRLS LIKE BOYS' PAPERS

London.
Mr. Geoffrey Richard Pocklington, after nine years of writing for boys and girls in all parts of the world, is resigning his editorship of the Boy's Own Paper, which has been in existence more than fifty years.

In his comments on things that interest the boy of 1933 he said:

"Anything mechanical appeals to the modern boy. He likes to move with the times. Where he used to like steam engines he now prefers aeroplanes. Once we taught him how to make rabbit hutches—now we explain super-sonic heterodyne wireless sets.

"Adventure stories are still popular but they must have a modern note with, say, a submarine. The Red Indian is not the hero here and as Wild West themes have been largely eclipsed by other things.

"There is not a very large demand for war stories. After all, the boy of 14 knows nothing of the war—it is as remote to him as Waterloo or the Crimea.

"But he likes stories of foreign countries and he has a very highly-developed sense of humour. School stories are always popular but they must be about up-to-date schools. The blazers, caps and shorts must be those of a modern school, not the discarded type of jacket and stiff collar that prevailed years ago.

"Funnily enough girls read a boys' paper in enormous numbers and I should not be surprised if half our readers were girls—the kind of athletic girl who likes boyish stories."—Reuter.

ing the present defendant Kwong Tsoi-ching.

RENT OF PROPERTY.

On the original sale of the property to Li Woon-nam, Ng took a ten year lease on the premises at a rental of $550, the rent being sent to the country to Li every month. No formal receipts were sent but letters passed between the two men in which Li acknowledged the receipt of the money. The letters continued to pass after Li's death but those from the country were seen by his widow chopped with the name of Li Woon-nam.

In 1929 Ng surrendered the lease for business reason and, on behalf of plaintiff, obtained new tenants. He arranged, for a small commission, to collect the rent and forward it to plaintiff monthly. Plaintiff received the rent until certain demands were made on Ng to pay the rent to defendant and no longer to plaintiff. This occurred after the sale of the property to the defendant by the mortgagee.

The first intimation plaintiff had of these dealings was about July 27, 1931, when she received a letter from her nephew, Li Choy-loi, whilst in Canton. She returned immediately to Toi Shan and there met Li Kai-loi and threatened him with arrest. He left the house.

On the evening of July 28, a person named Wong Yu, son of a man named Wong Wah-kon, Li Kai-loi's father-in-law handed her back the deeds. Accompanied by Wong Wah-kon she left for Hongkong the following day. On July 30 she went to the eating house of Wong Cheuk-nam in Wyndham Street and pointed out that his son had been responsible for the frauds—and asked him to get the property back. She was told that Li Hip-loi was out at the time and that nothing could be done until he returned.

"MAD WOMAN" ACCUSATION.

She called at the house the following day and remained there until 4 p.m. and refused to leave until she had seen Li Hip-loi.

Wong then complained to the Police that there was a mad woman in his house and asked their assistance in removing her. Two Chinese constables came to the house and Wong then stated that the plaintiff was unknown to him. Plaintiff pointed out Wong as her brother-in-law and stated that his son had signed the assignment document in her husband's name. Plaintiff was advised to see a solicitor about the matter.

Plaintiff then made her way to the house of Ng Tsoi-ching, with Wong Wah-kon, and while she was there a European, presumably a solicitor from Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, accompanied by a Chinese arrived. When she saw them, plaintiff went upstairs and took no part in the conversations.

Her nephew arrived in the Colony in August and together they went to the offices of Messrs. Lo and Lo.

Letters of administration to the estate of the deceased were granted to plaintiff on December 4th, 1931 with the will annexed.

A.A. ROAD PATROL FOR KOWLOON

NEW CAR PARK PLAN FOR VICTORIA

As recently announced, the City Hall is shortly to be demolished and this will mean the abolition of the car park.

From June 1st the A.A. patrol will be removed to Chater Road to supervise the Car Park behind the Cricket Club ground. Arrangements are being made to install an A.A. telephone at this stand so that it will be possible for a member of the A.A. employing a chauffeur to ring to the patrol on duty when his car is required and he will inform the chauffeur of the car concerned.

This should be of considerable benefit in the hot and rainy weather. It is hoped that chauffeur driven cars will make use of this stand and leave the part of Chater Road between Ice House Street and the Post Office for owner drivers.

Another development is the provision of an A.A. road patrol between Kowloon and Castle Peak on Saturday afternoons, Sundays and public holidays. Should these developments receive the support of the motoring community it is hoped to extend this service by providing a telephone to call chauffeurs from State Square and also to provide road patrols on their frequented roads.

SAFE TRAVELLING IN CHINA

SMILE BETTER THAN A REVOLVER

London.

Viscountess Gladstone spoke of a visit she had paid to China at a luncheon at the National Liberal Club.

"It is far safer to travel through China with a smile than with a pistol," she said. "It will get you much farther in greater safety."

"The Chinese do not care much about war. That there have been civil wars is true, but there have not been so many battles."

WIRELESS IN EACH CELL

Barcelona.

Prisoners in Barcelona gaol, many of whom are confined for political offences, have delivered an ultimatum to the authorities.

They announce a "general revolutionary escape", unless they have:

A daily bath.
A wireless in each cell.
Female attendants to do the cooking and clean the cells.
Meals which cost 1s. a head instead of 9d., and Restoration of the prison library, which was burned by prisoners during disturbances some time ago.

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

The stars are Janet Gaynor, Will Rogers, Lew Ayres, Sally Eilers, Norman Foster, Louise Dresser, Frank Craven and Victor Jory. Miss Gaynor, Rogers, Foster and Miss Dresser are seen as members of a Midwest farm family enjoying their annual outing at the State Fair. Ayres plays a newspaper reporter who covers the fair for his paper. Miss Eilers portrays a carnival trapeze, Craven characterizes a country storekeeper and Jory appears as a baker. The characters of "State Fair" are the sort of people you meet and talk with every day.

There is at least one in the group that every person will understand particularly well. It may be the pretty farm girl played by Janet Gaynor, the famous girl that Sally Eilers or the carnival girl that Sally Eilers characterizes. Somewhere every person who sees the picture will recognize an especially kindred spirit.

"State Fair" is the screen version of Phil Stong's Literary Guild prize novel.

Madison Square Garden

Being penny-wise hurts. But it pays.

That conclusion has been reached by Thomas Meighan, the noted screen star, featured with Jack Oakie, Marian Nixon, Warren Hyman, William Collier, Sr., William Boyd and Zasu Pitts in "Madison Square Garden," a drama set against the kaleidoscopic background of New York's famed circus, social and athletic centre, which comes as next change for the Queen's Theatre.

Meighan is rated as one of the wealthiest actors in the country. He owns extensive estates at Groot Neck, L.I., and East Port Richie, Fla. When he feels the urge to work he accepts one of the numerous screen contracts offered him. And there are enough to permit him to choose only good ones. Otherwise, he can rest and play.

In "Madison Square Garden," he plays the role of a millionaire president of "The Garden." The picture, like "Grand Hotel," "Union Square," and others of the one-location type, deals with a group of people of diversified backgrounds who glide briefly into the action, then out again, their lives changed by the events in which they have participated. The story of the arrival at "The Garden" of a manager and two proteges, and the latter's love affairs with two girl telegraph operators, binds the action together.

"Afraid to Talk"

In order to provide a realistic background for the revealing "Afraid to Talk," the startling drama now showing at the Central Theatre, Universal constructed practically an entire city hall inside one of its enormous sound stages.

Characteristic offices of city officials, court rooms and all interesting departments of a municipal administration building were reproduced, supplying audiences with a cinematic tour of a large city's governmental seat. Additional sets depicting the elaborate cafe and night club where-in much of the city's destinies are hatched required the erection of no less than three different sets where three entirely separate entertainment shows and orchestras performed.

Eric Linden and Sidney Fox are co-featured in "Afraid to Talk" supported by Billy Marshall, Louis Calhern, Mayo Methot, and other popular film artists. Edward Cahn directed.

"The Golden West"

It isn't necessary to walk how-legged and say "that-a-way" to be a western movie star. George O'Brien has proven it.

One of the most successful portrayals of a western hero roles on the screen, this handsome son of a San Francisco police official speaks the correct, clear-cut kind of English they teach undergraduates at Santa Clara University.

He takes himself to a barber at least once a week, and in his screen work not only refrains from drinking but also from smoking. As a matter of fact, this is no hardship for he does neither off the screen.

Quiet, soft spoken and usually smiling, the son of Daniel J. O'Brien,

London, May 27.

The death has occurred of the Baron Rosmead.—Our Own Correspondent.

Lord Rosmead was born in 1866 and was the only son of the first Baron Rosmead. During the Boer War he was A.D.C. to Major General Hutton, and was mentioned in despatches. In 1891 he married the Hon. Edith Louisa Handcock, third daughter of the fourth Baron Castlemaine, and they had two daughters.

O'Brien's latest film is "The Golden West", Fox picture soon to be seen at the King's Theatre next Friday.

"Madame Butterfly"

The pliant beauty of "Madame Butterfly," Paramount's latest production with Sylvia Sydney, Cary Grant and Charlie Ruggles in the leading roles, is to be seen at the Queen's Theatre.

This inspired love tale from John Luther Long's famous story, of a real geisha girl who actually lived, is universal in its appeal. The production has been deftly handled with a keen appreciation for all the beauty in the original story.

Miss Sydney plays the role of Cho-Cho-San, Cary Grant is in the role of the American naval officer.

FENG WILL FIGHT.

REFUSAL TO ACCEPT TRUCE

Nanking, May 27.

Reports from Peking state that General Feng Yu-hsiang issued a circular telegram from Kalgan, to-day announcing the assumption of the post of Commander-in-Chief of the peoples against the Japanese allied forces "in accordance with the wishes of the masses in various places."

General Feng strongly criticises the Government for its alleged lack of determination and definite plans to resist the Japanese effectively.

He states that the authorities, instead of devising plans for a counter-attack, are trying to negotiate a compromise in order to gain temporary security.

He further declares that he will defend Charhar and effect the recovery of lost territory.

It is understood that in addition to a bodyguard of 3,000, General Feng is supported by General Chang Chen-wu, who recently arrived at Hsuanhu, southward of Kalgan, with 4,000 men.

It is reported that General Sun Tien-ying, who fought against the Japanese at Chifeng and Jehol, is also allied with General Feng.

Well-informed Chinese circles are of the opinion that General Feng's action is likely to complicate the situation in North China.—Reuter.

Tokyo, May 27.

Reiterating that Japan's objective is solely to ensure the peace and security of the Manchukuo border along the Great Wall and that she has no intention to take either Peking or Tientsin, the War Office to-day issued a communique stating that truce negotiations between the Chinese and Japanese Armies had begun.

Declaring Japan's readiness to negotiate with any responsible and sincere Chinese, the communique asserts that Japan is prepared for either peace or war, consequently the outcome of the negotiations depends entirely on the Chinese attitude.—Reuter.

Troops Retiring

Peking, May 27.

Apparently pursuant to the recent verbal truce, both the Chinese and Japanese troops have continued their withdrawal from the Tunchow area, a Chinese communique reporting that the Japanese are now ten miles east of the city, while the Chinese troops are quartered at the same distance to the west.

Only a small Chinese force is remaining inside the city for policing purposes.—Reuter.

Peking, May 27.

While Peking continues to be very calm, the Authorities in Tientsin appear having a very difficult time with the plainclothes gunmen.

Chinese reports describe an attack on the Tangku station by armed men who were repulsed after hours of engagement yesterday.

Simultaneously, an attack was made by another armed band in the suburbs of Tientsin but this also proved to be unsuccessful.

Yet another attack was made by Kuo Chun between Tangku and Tientsin.

Two hundred gunmen are reported to be landing from junks in the Haiho, but the Chinese forces on the shore killed ten of them as they landed, while others fell into the river and were drowned.—Reuter.

Fight Plainclothesmen.

Peking, May 28.

A Chinese communique reports that an attempt was made this morning by Chinese gunmen to seize the Chinese garrison at Hsianpeng west of Taku. General Ma Ching-fu, former brigade commander under General Yu Hsueh-chung, entered the Headquarters of the regiment and declared that he had been promoted

DARING SEIZURE

JAPANESE SHIP PIRATED IN NORTH

Harbin, May 27.

Suave and polished and obviously well-educated, a Chinese pirate, speaking with fluent ease, the Japanese and French languages, directed operations on board the Japanese steamer, Hoshun Maru, when the vessel was seized and plundered in the Gulf of Pechihli.

The pirate chief was assisted by an equally striking aide-de-camp, the pair taking complete charge of the steamer.

The outrage was one of the most sensational ever perpetrated in North China waters, many other craft being attacked and plundered with the appropriated vessel.

When the attack took place, the Hoshun Maru was proceeding to Dairen with 1,000 Chinese refugee passengers, and 21 pirates who were mingled with the passengers took complete control of the ship in a few minutes.

All the passengers were robbed of their portable valuables and the loot is said to amount to a large sum, since the refugees had sold their cumbersome property before evacuating. The ship's safe was also rifled.

According to the escaped passengers, who arrived at Dairen to-day, the pirates, loaded with their heavy loot, left the ship when they reached shallow water, taking with them, many hostages.

The Hoshun Maru is a vessel of 700 tons.—Reuter.

When the attack took place, the Hoshun Maru was proceeding to Dairen with 1,000 Chinese refugee passengers, and 21 pirates who were mingled with the passengers took complete control of the ship in a few minutes.

All the passengers were robbed of their portable valuables and the loot is said to amount to a large sum, since the refugees had sold their cumbersome property before evacuating. The ship's safe was also rifled.

WORLD'S CHAMPION "TEETOTALLER"

Chicago's Collector of Golf TeesChicago, Illinois.
The world's most enthusiastic "teetotaller" is Mr. George Klerow, a Chicago architect.

He is a collector of golf tees.

Every golf course has its quota of club swingers who make a practice of collecting tees abandoned by the players just ahead. But there is no one else in the world, he claims, who has made it a hobby.In his collection there are 802 distinct varieties of tees. There are tees from all parts of the world, tees simple and complex, tees made of materials ranging from wood tothe residue of corn products manufacturing.

STRANGE HOBBY.

He began his strange hobby five years ago. He explains that he is a member of that old school which holds that for a golfer to purchase tees is about as silly as for a lawn-tender to buy dandelions."I've bought tees only once in my golfing career," he said.Among the unusual tees in the collection is one made of sterling silver with a chain attached. Another has a double head, one superimposed on the other.The idea is that if you knock one head off, you still have the other.
That is, if you find the tee after the stroke."Golfers will do queer things to prevent loss of their tees," Mr.
Klerow said. "This one, for instance."And he picked up one which was fitted with tassels and threw it.
It looked like a whirligig in flight.
"They'll be putting whistles on them next," he commented. "But they'll lose them and I'll find them."—Reuter.Printed and Published for the Proprietors by FREDERICK FENY

Little Entente States in Militant Mood

FOURPOWER PACT ATTACKED

READY TO DEFEND

ANTI-ITALIAN COMPLEXION

(By Telegraph. Copyright. Telegraphs
Mitsubishi Ordinance. 1933. Received May 29, 8.51 a.m.)

London, May 28.

Feeling is running high in the Little Entente countries and Poland as a result of the Four-Power Pact negotiations and its implication of treaty revision.In Belgrade, particularly, excitement is intense. It is taking a definite anti-Italian complexion, relations between Italy and Jugo-Slavia having been delicate for some considerable time.Shouts of "Down with Italy!" Down with the Four-Power Pact!" were raised at a mass meeting held in Belgrade to-day when 25,000 citizens and peasants from all parts of Jugo-Slavia held a protest meeting against the suggestion for a revision of the Peace Treaties.

READY TO FIGHT.

Meanwhile, at Geneva, the delegates of the Little Entente countries, speaking in their dif-

YACHTSMEN DROWNED

ONE DIES FROM EXPOSURE
AFTER SWIM ASHORE

Wellington, N.Z.

Three young men out of a party of four were lost when the yacht Mizpah, in which they were sailing from Auckland to Wellington, was driven ashore near Porangahau (Hakea Bay) and broke to pieces in a violent storm.The only survivor, Mr. C. Harris, who managed to swim ashore, said that he and his companions were washed overboard. "I gripped a box," Mr. Harris continued, "and was washed ashore exhausted. I regained warmth by rubbing myself vigorously with sand, and afterwards made inland, running as far as I could."In the darkness he eventually located a telephone line, and, following it, was guided to a settler's home, where he was tended.The naked body of one of his friends, Mr. J. Hurrell, was found a mile inland to-day. It is supposed that he managed to swim to land, struggled on to the beach, and attempted to make his way inland, but that, overcome by blinding rain and exhaustion, he died of exposure.—Reuter.ferent tongues, all denounced the idea of treaty revision.They declared that they would fight if necessary to defend their frontiers, which they secured with such great sacrifices.—Reuter.

England's Oldest Aviator

"GRANNY" STROUD
AGED 66

London.

"Granny" Stroud, aged 66, is the oldest pilot in England. And she has just learned to fly.Mrs. Stroud, who thinks it is never too late to learn anything became interested in aviation through her son, who is an ardent pilot.
She decided she would like to fly a machine herself and her first time up in an aeroplane was her first flying lesson.She had no fears and her grasp of the controls was as firm and as confident as that of a young woman. She has only had a few lessons but she can handle the machine in the air like an expert.She raced her young grandson, aged thirteen, to see which of them would learn to fly first. They had the same instructor and the same machine. The contest ended in a tie, for the boy, the youngest pilot in the country, is also capable of flying solo.—Reuter.
